ing the same language, professing the same religion, and living under the same laws. He then alludes to the bloody revolutions of the Republic, the perils which still threaten her, and finally to the promised protection of the mother country, which had never ceased to entertain kindly feelings towards them.

She promises to us all that civil liberty which her own people enjoy, and guarantees to us natural liberty beyond all possibility of losing it. She secures to us our property, and to that end recognizes as valid all the acts of the Republic. She promises to recognize and reward merit, and will never forget services to the country. In fine, she will bring back peace again to a country so long the scene of wars, and with peace its innumerable blessings.

Yes, Dominicans, from this day forth you may rest from the fatigues of war, and occupy yourselves with the future of your children.

Spain protects us. Her flag waves over us.
Her arms will defend us. She recognizes our liberties, and together we will defend them, as one people, one family, as we always have been. Together we will prostrate ourselves before those altars that same nation erected; before those altars which she finds to-day as she left them, safe, intact, and crowned yet with the shield of her arms, her castle and lions, the first standard which Columbus raised at the side of the cross in these unknown lands, in the name of Isabella the First, the great, the noble and the Catholic Isabella; an august name, which with the sovereignty of Castile, inherited also the love of the people of the Spanish isles. We raise there again the flag of her kingdom; and proclaim it in the name of our Queen and Sovereign.

Long live Isabella II! Long live liberty!
Long live religion! Long live the Dominican people! Long live the Spanish nation!

FROM MONTGOMERY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE DISPATCH.]

MONTGOMERY, ALA., April 9, 1861.

The fire that our fathers kindled on the Altars of Liberty, Law, and the Constitution, though no longer alive in the so-called United States Government, is burning brightly here, and will light the new Republic rapidly on to power and renown. Brave, wise, and honest statesmen are in power, who will preserve the liberty and glory that, like guardian angels, hover round the birth of the noble and Minerva-like offspring. Never can it be prostituted to the contempt and infamy that the black and degraded faction in control at Washington have branded upon a once proud and just Government, but now a ruined, dreary throne, whose leaders seem wrathfully bent upon a still more fatal destruction.

While I write, the shadowy hopes and doubts that have heretofore existed in regard to the fulfillment of the "peace policy" promised to be pursued towards the Confederate States, are winging their everlasting flight from our peaceful and happy shores, and face to face we seem to stand with bloody Mars.
All "reconstructive breathings" will soon be hushed; all "reorganizing dreams" will vanish into thin air, and shadows like the one in Richard III., whose bright hair was "dabbled in blood," will become fearful realities. The next gale that reaches your State may bring with it the odious din and clash of arms—and American blood will have been shed by American hands.

It is now believed from reliable Washington advices, and other information, that a delay of hostilities cannot long exist. Our Commissioners are expected to be withdrawn immediately, unless a great change occurs in the Black Republican Cabinet.

A Cabinet meeting was held here on Tuesday evening, of a grave character, and serious conclusions were arrived at and warlike orders issued.

The Secretaries were at their Departments until past midnight.

Gen. Beauregard, whose cannons have their bowels full of wrath, and are ready-mounted to spew forth their iron indignation against the walls of Sumter, has reported himself fully prepared and in conjunction with Gen.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

*The Policy of the Administration is War—Convention of Southern Rights Men at Williamsburg—Secession Meeting, Secession
Flag, Secession Speeches, Secession Ladies, and Secession Enthusiasm—Appointments to Office by Lincoln, &c., &c.*

HAMPTON, VA., April 8th, 1861.

The Administration has finally defined its policy; not publicly, but stealthily—just Sew-ard's fashion. I am inclined to the opinion that the Hon. J. S. Millson will soon find his error in this, as his constituents have found theirs in other instances; but they will correct them at the polls. He said, in Petersburg, "Lincoln is for peace." What does he think now? Probably the blockading of ports, collecting of revenue, and reinforcing Southern forts, in the opinion of the honorable gentleman, are peace measures? Well, we shall soon learn more definitely what the Washington Government really intends to do.

A Convention of Southern Rights men has been called, to assemble in Williamsburg the 22d of the present month, to nominate candidates for this Senatorial District; also, for the House of Delegates. A number of gentlemen, good and true, have been spoken of for both positions.

There was a spirited meeting of Southern Rights men held in this place last Saturday.
O. S. Jones, Esq., presided. Thorough secession resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted. It has been our good fortune to be present at a number of similar meetings. We have yet to attend one characterized by so much harmony, and, as above stated, so spirited.

After the adjournment of the meeting, notice was given that a secession pole would be raised. The crowd immediately retired to the spot, and we soon had the pleasure of seeing the banner of the Confederate States floating in the breeze. I have not the time or space to give a description of the eloquent speeches delivered on the occasion by Messrs.
James Barron Hope, Thos. Tabb, B. P. Lee, Jr., and Wm. R. Willis. I have rarely witnessed such enthusiasm as was manifested by the large crowd in attendance.

Lieut. Latimer, commanding a squad of the "Wythe Rifles," saluted the flag, firing "a round" for each seceded State.

To-day we heard a Union flag would be raised in another part of the town. About two o'clock our attention was called to a flag with the motto, "the Constitution and the Union" on one side of it; we cannot say what was on the other. But of one thing we are certain, before 6 o'clock the flag had split into three pieces. You will say that was ominous, and I agree with you.

Several appointments to Federal offices have been made in this place. Our efficient and deservingly popular Postmaster, Mr. G.
A. Cary, has been removed. Maj. J. B. Cary resigned the office he held, as Surveyor. Lincoln promptly filled it. It is reported other appointments have been made, but the report has yet to be confirmed.

The time may soon come when certain representatives will have to give a strict account of their affiliation with Lincoln, Seward, Blair & Co. Would it not be better, infinitely better, to have representatives who have less sympathy with a Black Republican Administration? The people will give a verdict at the approaching Spring election, and you may be sure they will find all such guilty.
The weather has been very stormy during the past two days. Yours, &c., L.

WYTHEVILLE, VA., April 8th, 1861.

This being Court-day, our town presents a most animated appearance, notwithstanding it has been raining the last twenty-four hours, which prevents many of our citizens from attending.

The Court was occupied most of the day with civil business, granting licenses, &c.—
In the afternoon it was adjourned, in order to give the honorable Messrs. Martin and Mc-

The River.—The rising tendencies of the rivers James, and his evident intention to continue on a bender for some days to come, presents a prolific theme for discourse on part of the people. The subject is not a new one, even for a newspaper man, yet wanspace compels us to dismiss it with the remark that the river yesterday experienced a flood sufficient to lower its surface eight feet.
The effects of the present freshet have been particularly disastrous on the South side of the river, opposite Richmond. The valuable and highly cultivated lands lying on its margin are now all overflowed, the dykes constructed for the especial purpose of keeping the tides out having given away under heavy pressure, and the angry flood now covers thousands of acres of the very best land in lower Virginia, entirely destroying crops, and destroying all chance for picking up a crop there this year. The low-lands of following gentlemen in Chesterfield have been flooded, viz: J. B. Jones, T. V. Burgess, Henry Cox, Dr. John Howlett, the Messrs.
Friend, Boulware, Fenoley, Gregory, Wm.
A. H. Dreyer, and others. The destruction of crops will be heavy.

Supreme Court of Appeals—April 10.—Le-son's ex'or vs. Lawson. Argued by Geo.
Wm. Brent for the plaintiff, and Francis Smith for the defendant. Judgment of the Circuit Court of Alexandria not a stay of review and judgment rendered on demurrer to defence for plaintiff.

Upon the petition of Wm. H. Brown an appeal is allowed him from a decree pronounced by the Circuit Court of Stafford county, rendered Sept. 25th, 1860, in a suit in which J.
G. Taliaferro, suing for himself and the other heirs at law of Sidney Wishart and Wil-mina Taliaferro, Cec'd, heirs at law, &c., Lieut. Thos. Wishart, of the revolutionary army.

On the 11th of April, the Court heard the cases of Vaughn vs. the Commonwealth, and two of Caldwell vs. the Commonwealth.
Argued, the first two by Wm. H. Cook for plaintiff, and by the Attorney-General for Commonwealth; and in the second by Bernardy R. Johnson for the plaintiff, and for Commonwealth by the Attorney-General.
Case under advisement.

Virginia Mechanics' Institute.—At an adjourned meeting of the Institute, held Thursday night last, the following officers and managers were elected:

President—A. M. Bailey.
Vice-Presidents—Thos. H. Wynne and Wm.
Macfarlane.

Recording Secretary—J. W. Lewellen.
Corresponding Secretary—H. P. Edmond.
Treasurer—Samuel P. Mitchell.

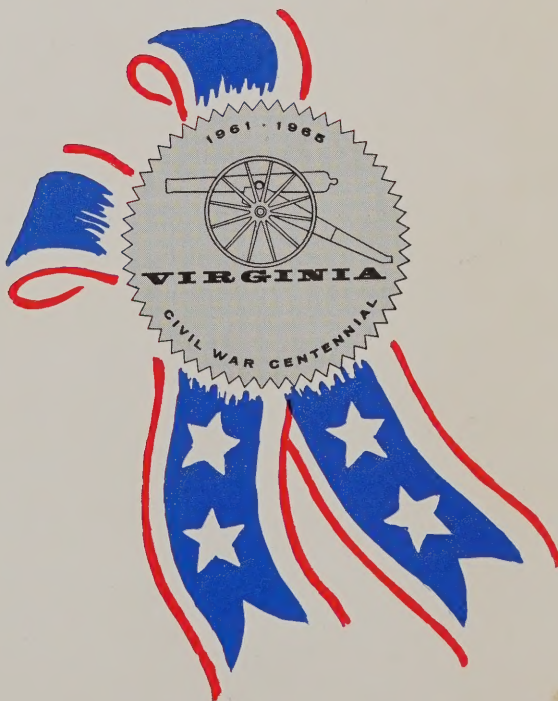

Auditor—George W. Anderson.
Board of Managers.—Geo. Bargamin, Jan-
D. Browne, E. B. Spence, S. S. Cottrell, G.
A. Ainslie, H. R. Burger, John W. McK.
James T. Pemberton, Wm. W. Snead, J.
F. Powell, James Kersey, John H. Johns,
James A. Scott, John Macfarlane, John Tyler, John P. Tyler, Geo. S. Lowmes, Chas.
Allen, A. J. Bowers, and Oliver Davis.

The Board are to meet at the Hall on Tuesday night next, for organization and the election of Standing Committees, at which time every member who intends to serve out to be at his post.

The Institute is now in a flourishing condition; but to continue to prosper, its management must be energetic and attentive in the discharge of their duties. Its next Fair will be held in October.

The Grand Dress Southern Rights Ball, announced to come off next Tuesday night, at the Old Market Hall, bids fair to eclipse a thing of similar character gotten up here a long time. Able and influential gentlemen are enlisted in the cause, and their best efforts are being exerted to have the ball one to be long remembered for its brilliancy.
The proceeds accruing therefrom are to be used in a way that we are sure will meet with the hearty approval of all lovers of the South and her rights. If all go who should, the

"There can't be so many men that men have followed so."

IN full recognition of the Civil War Centennial, the 1961 Monticello joins the thousands who are remembering this part of our American heritage. From this period of history we have chosen to salute the one man whose character sets him apart from all his contemporaries, Robert E. Lee.

Here in Richmond we are surrounded by constant historical reminders of Lee, for he was born near here and most of his activities during his life centered in and around our city and state. The Monticello staff, however, wishes to probe deeper than historical or sentimental feelings. We propose to show the basic principles for which Lee stood: leadership, scholarship, citizenship, generalship, friendship, sportsmanship, and stewardship. At Thomas Jefferson we have been given many opportunities to gain a firm grounding in these ideals, but if we are truly to honor our past and fulfill our hopes, we must live these ideals as Lee did in every phase of his life.

The life of Robert E. Lee is more than a memory; it is a challenge. As you re-live your school year through this book, we hope that you will keep this challenge in mind: Can we follow his example?

Leadership

Robert E. Lee's five-year administration as president of Washington College in Lexington, Virginia, is marked by the harmonious relationship between president, faculty and student. As their president, and therefore, leader, Lee felt an obligation to both student and teacher to set a standard of high moral and academic standing. Kind and courteous in his dealings with all, he gave his faculty the moral support it needed to bring out its best, and to his students, the knowledge that he was interested in each as an individual. Lee laid special stress on courses which would meet the needs of the time, for he felt that a person's education was completed only at his death and that the work of the school was to prepare a firm academic basis on which the students would build their future. Although he himself seemed better suited for science and mathematics, he believed strongly in a broad cultural background of languages, history and literature. The academic, however, was not the only side of the school life to which he gave importance; to him personal honor, deportment, worship, school spirit and physical fitness were integral parts of a well-rounded education. In acknowledgment of the ideals which Lee instilled in the college, after his death, Washington College changed its name to Washington and Lee University.

Robert E. Lee's "theory of education" embodies most of the ideals which the faculty of Thomas Jefferson is striving to include in its program. Each course, from English through physical education, exists for a purpose, the ultimate goal being the preparation of each student as an individual, for the problems and challenges he will meet after high school, at the same time realizing that he has only begun to learn.

THOMAS JEFFERSON HIGH SCHOOL
GRADE AND MALVERN STREETS
RICHMOND 21, VA.

To you, the students:

In recording the events and activities of a year, The Monticello endeavors to present some of the ideals and traditions of our school. This is especially true of the 1961 book which honors Robert E. Lee, a man who lived by the same ideals in which we believe and whose life is a part of the tradition of our school and nation.

Lee lived in difficult years, but he lived in behalf of tomorrow and with a faith in the future of his country. "It should be the object of us all," he wrote, "to avoid controversy, to allay passions, give full scope and reason to every kindly feeling. By doing this and encouraging our citizens to engage in the duties of life to be turned aside by thoughts of the past and fears of the future, our country will not only be restored in material prosperity, but will be advanced in science, in virtue and in religion." If, in the years at Thomas Jefferson, you learn the meaning of those words, then you will understand the words of our Alma Mater, "Thou hast taught us how to live."

Best wishes to the seniors who join the ranks of loyal alumni. May this volume serve to revive fond memories of eventful and happy days at Thomas Jefferson.

Cordially,

W. W. Brock, Principal

HENRY I. WILLETT

Superintendent, Richmond Public Schools

Recognized by school leaders throughout the country as one of the outstanding men in his field, Mr. Henry I. Willett, Superintendent of the Richmond Public Schools, also holds the respect and admiration of the faculties and students who work under him. Thomas Jefferson is particularly indebted to Mr. Willett. The recent addition of two new high schools in the north and south sides of the city could have caused many present Tee Jay seniors to spend their last year of high school in a new school. Mr. Willett, however, allowed those pupils affected to decide for themselves whether to continue at Tee Jay or to move to the new school in their districts. As a result, many of our outstanding student leaders have been able to remain at Thomas Jefferson this year. We are also proud to have Mr. Robert Van Cleef as the new assistant principal on the staff. Mr. Van Cleef came from the old John Marshall High School, which is no longer in use.

Correct English Was a Basis for All Studies

A thorough understanding of one's own language and proficiency in using it is essential in all studies. With this in mind, the English courses at Thomas Jefferson have been designed to enable the student to write clearly and concisely, to speak effectively, and to read widely and thoughtfully. With a firm foundation in grammar and vocabulary, an appreciation of great literary works, and a developed style in composition, the English Department hopes to prepare the students to handle themselves with ease in whatever situation they might be placed.

Much of the teachers' time is consumed by voluminous amounts of clerical work. Mrs. Albright busily checks her textbooks before disbursing them to her pupils.

Advanced Mathematics Offered to Ambitious Students

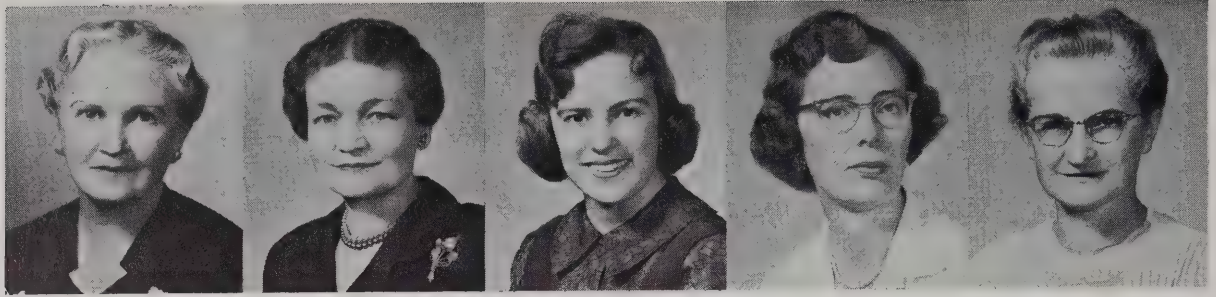

Mrs. Bugg explains the "whys" of logarithms to Meade Pratali after class one day.

From the need to express size, quantity and relationship, the science of mathematics has evolved. The purpose of studying mathematics in high school is not only to gain familiarity with the methods of solving problems and to develop accuracy in computation, but to train the mind to think logically. With the mathematics courses at Thomas Jefferson ranging from fundamental arithmetic to plane and solid geometry and on to calculus, trigonometry, and introductory college algebra, it is hoped that the students may develop the ability to use their math.

Advanced European History Taught by College Professor

Dr. Bigelow points out some extra reference material in answer to the questions of a few advanced history students who have arrived early for their 8:00 a.m. class.

From the past man learns of the future, for it is only by comparison with past deeds that he can determine the significance of present occurrences and predict their influence on posterity. If Americans are to preserve their freedom, each citizen must understand fully the principles of a democracy and the importance of his participation in it. While the government courses at Thomas Jefferson instill in the student an awareness of his civil responsibilities, the history courses promote appreciation of the American heritage.

Science Students Took Honors in Talent Contest

Conservation of life as well as study of it is taught by Biology classes. Miss Pitt posts some of the "Keep Virginia Green" posters which have been made for a contest in conservation.

From the beginnings of recorded history man has endeavored to understand the complexities of his surroundings and to improve his life. If the advancement of civilization is to continue, not only comprehension of the known but exploration of the unknown must be sought to gain a clear perspective. At Thomas Jefferson fundamental biology and chemistry courses have been designed to examine the more familiar aspects of the world and to create a solid foundation for the physics and astronomy courses which explore the less familiar things.

Language Lab Introduced by Language Department

With the advances of modern science bringing the peoples of the world into closer contact with one another, it is becoming imperative for well-informed Americans to be able to speak another language. It is no longer satisfactory solely to read and write it; the language must be spoken. The introduction of a language laboratory has allowed students at Thomas Jefferson to develop oral fluency and comprehension in French, German, Latin, Russian, and Spanish beyond the extent possible within the limited time of the daily class.

Creative Abilities Molded by Art and Music Departments

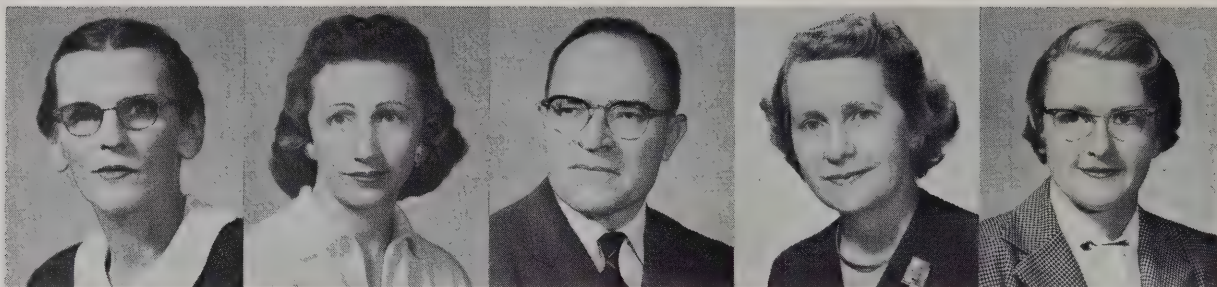

Students aren't the only ones who take "time off." After several hours of work Mr. Howell enjoys just relaxing.

With the prosperity and progress of the world dependent on international understanding, the importance of a universal language is greater than ever before. The expression of feeling through the creation of beauty is a medium of communication long used and understood by peoples of diverse cultures and backgrounds. Emphasizing the necessity for intelligent study of beauty, the art and music courses at Thomas Jefferson have been designed to equip the students with the fundamental appreciation and skill needed by the society in which they will live.

Job Training Class Attended by Student Retailers

Typing is just one of the skills Gill Warwick is learning in her business class.

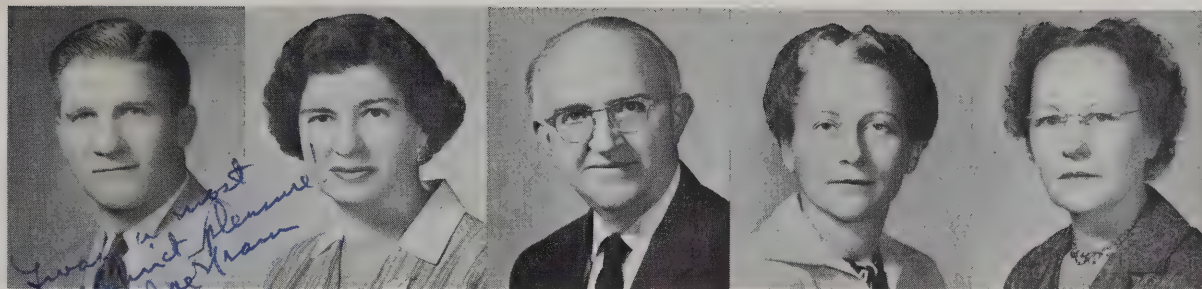

For those students who will enter the business world immediately after high school, or who wish to acquire skill in typing or shorthand for their own personal use, the Business Department provides the necessary courses. Bookkeeping, business mathematics, operation of business machines and Distributive Education are all a part of business life. It is hoped that the business students of Thomas Jefferson will be trained, not only in efficient operation of machines, but also in the disciplined and orderly thought necessary for business success.

Healthy Minds Complemented by Healthy Bodies

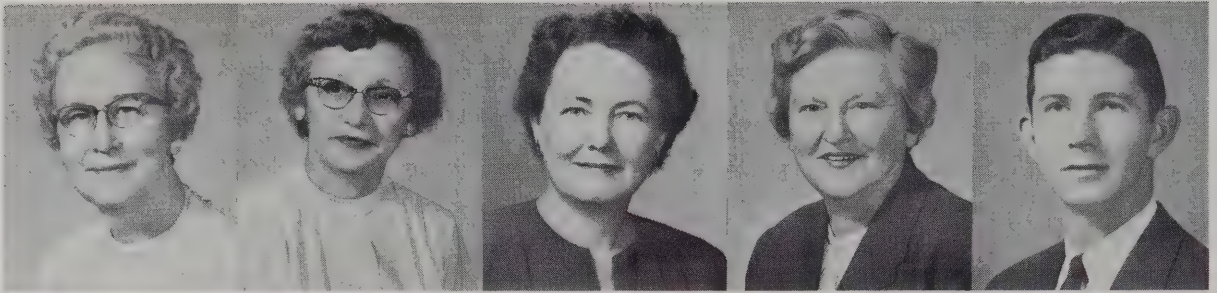

Physical as well as mental aptitude is important for the over-all well-being of the students. The vigorous exercise employed in both the individual and team sports taught by the Physical Education Department provide a welcome respite from the hours of concentrated study spent sitting at desks. The "basic training" for the school teams is begun in the Phys. Ed. classes. Football, basketball, tennis, softball, track, gymnastics, shot put and pole vaulting are just a few of the activities involved in the daily class periods.

Counselors, Nurse, Dietitian Aided Students in Many Ways

A counselor's work is never done! Along with personal consultations with both students and parents, there are schedules to make out, class sizes to compute, four-year records to keep, college board announcements and test scores to compile. Meanwhile, teachers and students come in to change things around. Counselors sponsor College Day, to which representatives from colleges and universities all over the country come to interest the students in their respective schools.

It would take endless patience to be a secretary at Thomas Jefferson. Hundreds of questions must be answered daily both from visitors, students, and by telephone. The secretaries are responsible for daily and monthly attendance records, college transcripts, permanent records for students, and the regular school correspondence. Aside from their regular secretarial duties they are in charge of the lost and found, and direct the office aides who are the school messengers.

A typical day in the Tee Jay office! Mrs. Swift works on some reports while Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Hobson confer over additional work.

Mrs. Garthright types busily on one of the many stencils which she cuts for three departments of the school.

Clean School, Balanced Diet Attributed to Service Personnel

CUSTODIANS: Charles Montgomery, Head Custodian, Niles Hopper. Second Row: Milton Windle, Ernest Irwin. Back Row: Earl Carson, O. O. Moon, Vincent Loterzo.

Errors of the day find their way to the trash can by way of wadded pages discarded as pupils leave the room. By the next morning these examples of futile effort have disappeared. Lights burn late into the night while vacuum-cleanerish sounds emerge and strange figures are seen waving pieces of cloth. A darkened hall suddenly becomes light again. A Venetian blind is mended. The smell of hot rolls and the clank of pans issue from the cafeteria. The force behind all this activity is the staff of maids and custodians whose work contributes so much to the efficiency, comfort and beauty of the school.

MAIDS: Seated, Inez Henderson. Standing, Alice Boyd, Marie Taylor.

Scholarship

In 1825, Robert E. Lee entered the United States Military Academy at West Point as just one of many cadets. By the end of his four years, Lee had distinguished himself as a young man of high intelligence and fine caliber. He applied himself diligently to his studies and at the time of his graduation Lee ranked second in a class of 323. During the course of his years at the Point, Lee received no demerits, yet he was never haughty over his high record and was well liked by his fellow cadets. This combination of academic honor and outstanding character earned for him, in his last year, the highest and most coveted West Point honor, that of corps adjutant. Robert E. Lee was offered the best instruction his country could give him; he took it and with it made his career.

Though not under the strict discipline of West Point regulations, we at Thomas Jefferson have been offered the opportunity to learn the same self-discipline and pride along with the high standards of scholarship exhibited by Lee. The choice rests with us; we may accept what is offered, or reject it. We, and we alone, set our standards. In the following pages we have tried to record some of the events and activities which have affected the growth of each class. We cannot all stand as high academically as Lee did, nor can we all hold the highest offices, but we can follow the example he set by doing our best.

SENIOR CLASS WAS LARGEST IN TEE JAY'S HISTORY...

We have reached the pinnacle of high school life, the senior year. We've changed in our years at Tee Jay. Physically, we have grown, but, what is more important, we have matured mentally. Possession of the power to reason rationally has helped us make decisions without hesitation and prejudice. We were given the opportunity to exercise this power in the election of our class officers, senators, and S. P. officials. Socially, we sponsored the Senior-Junior, produced a humorous—yet meaningful—play, and attended a fun-filled class picnic. We realized, however, that our social life must be balanced with a strong academic program to build the character of a well-rounded person. Also, the fierce competition for college entrance prompted us to study longer and harder than ever. As a result, most of us could look forward to commencement exercises and graduation.

There are hazards to everything, even the Senior Class picnic.

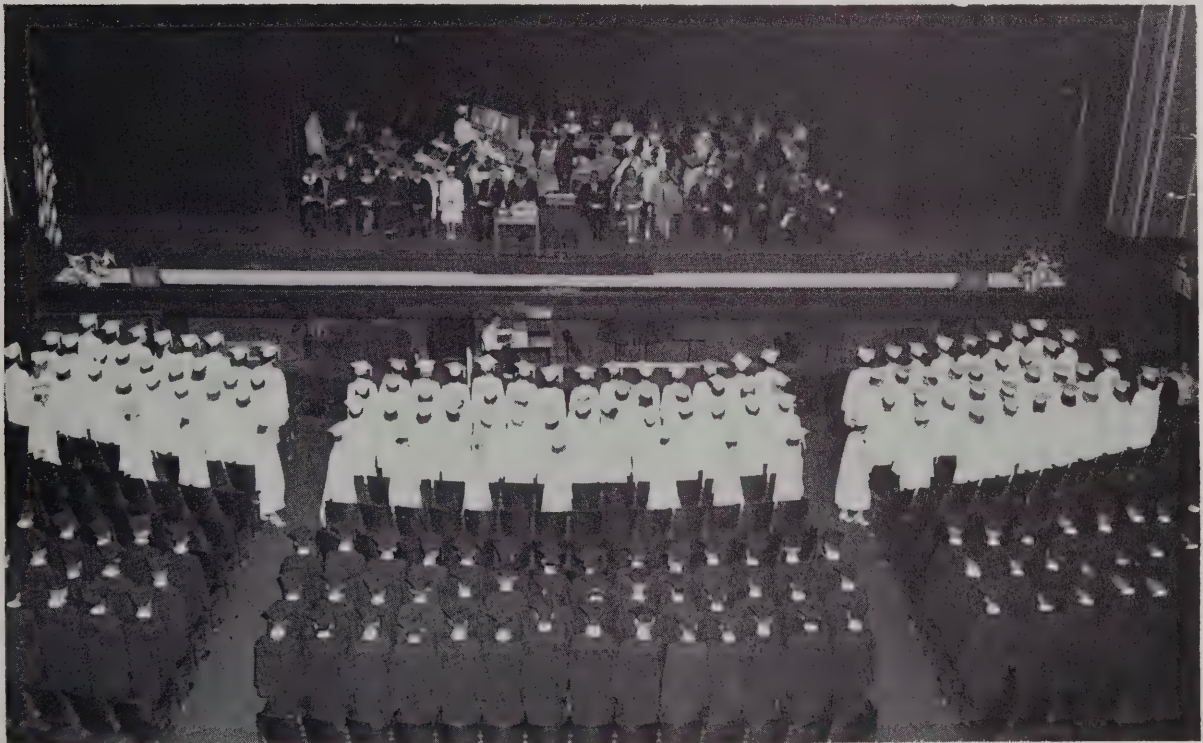

...THESE QUALITIES WILL BE STUDENTS' MAIN HOPES FOR SUCCESS

Approximately 1183 days ago we timidly entered the halls of Tee Jay for the first time. When we look back and recall our high school days, why do the last 180 days stand out? We remember Gill Warwick, who came to us from Sussex, England, as a student under the auspices of the American Field Service. A member of the student body, she made us realize that, while she represented Great Britain to us, we represented America to her. We also remember that, although ours was the largest senior class in Tee Jay's history, we developed and were treated as individuals. Many of us, we remember, participated ardently in extracurricular activities, be they athletics, clubs, or publications. Finally, we remember our friends, the fun we had, the hard work which led to graduation, and the firm foundation of principles on which we are constantly building our future.

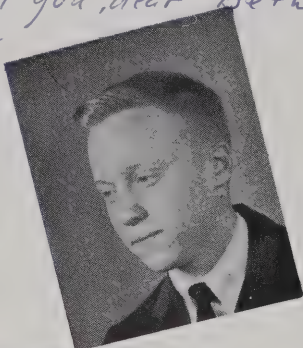

Peanuts a la Monticello is demonstrated by members of the Literary Staff in the Freshman assembly. They are Buddy Mayo (Charlie Brown), Beverley Lipscomb (Snoopy), She'don Markowitz (Linus), and Myra Greenspoon (Sally).

Mrs. Betty Story, junior class sponsor, discusses a typing lesson with David Crute.

A Junior is a very special thing at Tee Jay. He doesn't know as much as the almighty Senior, but thinks he does. He is wise enough not to buy elevator passes, but foolish enough to try out for the polo team. He is the first to complain about the heavy academic schedule and shortage of time, but he is up to his neck in extra-curricular activities. Not only may he now attend the Sr.-Jr. and Jr.-Sr. dances, but he may share with the Seniors the privilege of wearing the school ring. Above all, he can converse with the Seniors on a first name basis. Out of this wild and wacky class come Junior Stunt Night, the future S. P. officers, merit scholars, the exchange student, and next year's first-string football players. Today's carefree Junior is next year's mature and respected Senior.

With belts 'round their knees and pillows on their heads, the Dancing Dolls were definitely one of the unusual parts of Stunt Night.

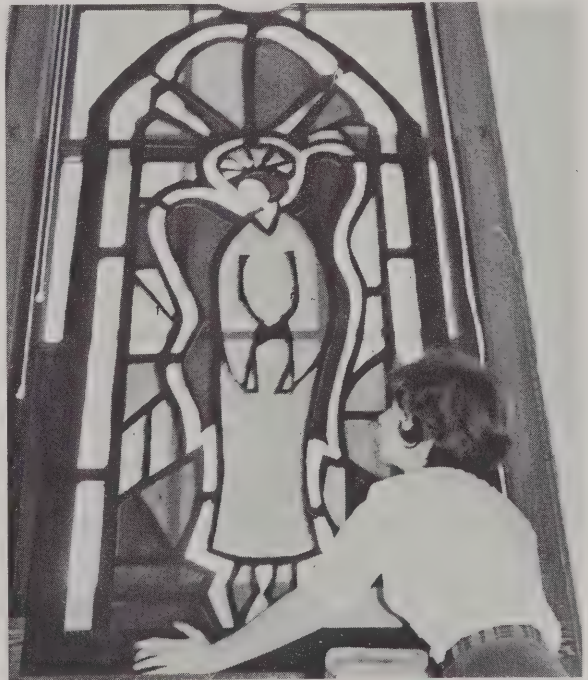

The "cowpokes" of Stunt Night bodily eject a scoundrel from the room.

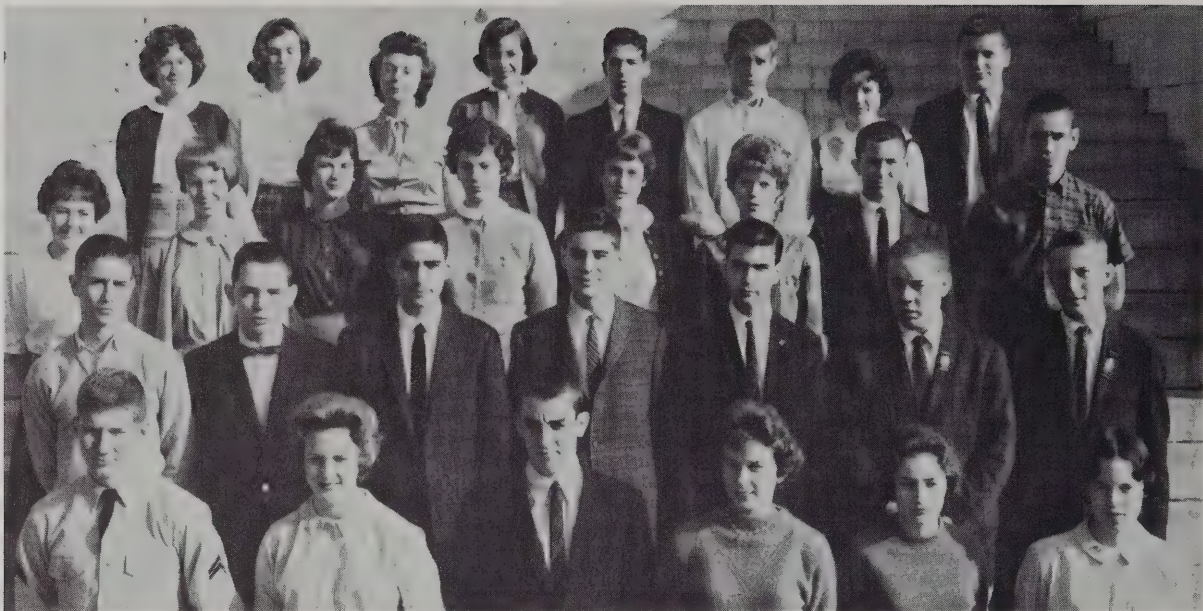

To achieve the precise footwork of the girls' chorus line, many hours were spent in practice after school.

Juniors Carry Memories of Stunt Night Into Senior Year

An important part of any school's job is the development of creativity within its students. It goes without saying that the members of the class of '62 showed much creative ability as they wrote, directed and produced Junior Stunt Night. "West in Peace" was the result of much hard work, done solely by talented Juniors over the summer months and into the fall semester. Not only did Juniors write the entire script, but they constructed and painted all the scenery, choreographed dance numbers, created and designed most of the costumes, applied make-up to every participant, and, on their own time, promoted and aroused school interest in this production. Junior Stunt Night brought out not only the artistic talents of the Juniors, but it gave them valuable training in responsibility, for the success or failure of this undertaking rested entirely with them.

SOPHS WERE ASKED TO PROVE THEMSELVES ACADEMICALLY...

At any educational institution, Tee Jay notwithstanding, the lowest echelon of scholastic and social life is occupied by the Freshmen and Sophomores. Let it be said that these classes possess two qualities for which Juniors and Seniors have no use: humility and restraint. These qualities are by no means the only strong points of the maligned underclassmen. In their "misery" the Sophomores and Freshmen showed fortitude, dignity, and a yearning to be ardent and active participants in all of the school's social and scholastic activities. The Sophomores' main social function of the year, their class dance, provided an evening of enjoyment for all who attended. This and other activities, including Junior Varsity sports, helped in decreasing their discontent. In fact, the Sophs put a feather in their cap for consistently outnumbering their so-called "superior" upper classmates on the honor roll. This year these classes were compelled to forgive and forget; but next year they will be inspired to forgive and get even.

The privileges of citizenship also entail certain responsibilities, primary among which is the obligation of loyalty. It was loyalty to his native land that led Robert E. Lee to make the most far-reaching decision of his career. It was this same allegiance that afterwards, even when he and the other Confederate leaders had been divested of their citizenship, prompted him to remain with his native state to help rebuild her. A man of deep convictions, Lee never ceased his concern for the welfare of his country and he constantly urged his associates to do all in their power to aid the re-establishment of order. He himself made it his axiom to do nothing which would incite disfavor or bring injury to the South. What was past and could not be remedied, he refused to discuss. He was too busy employing the present for building the future to have the time to stop and relive the past.

We, within our school organizations, in practicing our citizenship, do not have a war-torn country to rebuild. Yet, we too must work together in loyalty to support the group, not abandoning all because a part is not perfect. To become citizens of the world, we are first trained to be citizens of our school. If we are to deserve and retain our citizenship we must learn to work together for our common good. From the Senate to the smallest club or committee, we work within an organizational structure where opposing viewpoints constantly meet, either to be resolved by verbal compromise or test of ballot. Not all can win. It is good for each of us to learn to lose occasionally, to yield gracefully, for the sake of peace and order, and having done so, to continue with the loyalty a citizen owes to build on what is left.

TEAMWORK, MENTAL ALERTNESS STRESSED BY LEADERS...

The main objectives of the Student Participation Association at Thomas Jefferson are to provide a training ground for both citizens and civic leaders, teach basic principles of teamwork and responsibility, and encourage mental alertness and agility in future citizens. Occupying the chief executive position in the S. P., the president presides over all meetings of the Senate and appoints the chairmen of all committees. The vice-president acts as the Speaker of the House of Representatives and performs the duties of the president in his temporary absence. Accurate and thorough records of all proceedings of the Student Association are kept by the recording secretary, while official correspondence is carried out by the corresponding secretary and financial affairs are handled by the treasurer.

...SENATE LINKED STUDENT BODY AND FACULTY

Under the guidance of the faculty adviser, Mrs. Brumble, the Senate has tried to bring about co-operation with the school authorities and efficiency in the various student organizations. In addition to their regular duties, the Senators undertook two main projects. Having decided that the school needed a standardized ring and regulations governing its wearing, the Senate recommended four designs, one of which the student body selected to be the official ring. Influenced by the students' desire for an organization composed of boys who had received athletic achievement letters, the Senate established the Monogram Club. Through such activities as workshops and a convention to which twelve delegates and a speaker were sent, the Senate became more closely allied with the State SCA than ever before.

Since the adoption of the Student Participation System, students from homerooms have expressed their thoughts and suggestions through their House representatives. DATES OF SCHOOL FUNCTIONS ASSIGNED BY B.O.C. . .

To develop harmony among the various extra-curricular activities and to promote the general welfare of the student body are the purposes for which the Board of Coordination, better known as the B.O.C., has been established. The membership is composed of the officers and sponsor of the Student Participation Association, the presidents and sponsors of the four classes, the chairman of Club Affiliations, the chairman of the Honor Council, and representatives from the cadet corps, the music department, the athletic department, and the literary and business staffs of the publications. With the membership drawn from such diverse activities, representation of almost the entire student body is made possible. Each year, to lessen conflicts between organizations, dates are assigned to school functions by the B.O.C. and each group is given an opportunity to carry out its program. At the request of a student or member of the faculty, the B.O.C. will consider alteration of dates and changes beneficial to the student body as a whole. In order to increase understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world, Thomas Jefferson receives a foreign student every other year through the American Field Service Americans Abroad and is allowed to nominate several students who may be placed abroad with a family for the summer. The B.O.C. serves as the nominating committee for the student body and selects the students who will be our candidates to the A.F.S. From four nominees, A.F.S. selected Sally Gabb for 1961.

...THESE STUDENTS SUBSTITUTED BOOKS FOR T. V.

To further the interest in good literature as a medium of expression, the Book Club devoted its entire year to the reading and discussing of books, both classic and current. Prospective members were recommended by their English teachers and then invited by the club to join. Each member was encouraged to read the reviews by critics in the newspapers and magazines of new books and to report to the group any books which he had particularly enjoyed. In addition to their reading, the group took several trips to the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts to examine the exhibits of treasures in art. In another field of literature, the club heard recordings, belonging to the English department, of well-known dramas, such as "The Picture of Dorian Gray" and Shakespeare's "Hamlet." By hearing these plays read by professionals, the members were able to compare their own interpretations with those of experienced performers. They also read a comedy to themselves, each member taking a part. As the Christmas season drew near, the group extended its new-found knowledge to the Crippled Children's Hospital in the form of books for the library. They also held their annual Christmas party and, when the movie "Porgy and Bess" came to town, the Book Club attended en masse. The group's spring project involved helping the school library in its promotion of National Library Week. Through its program the club hoped to interest more people in reading—with understanding as well as pleasure—more and better books.

BOOK-BALANCERS LEARNED OF FUTURE OCCUPATIONS...

The Bookkeeping Club of Thomas Jefferson offered prospective members opportunities to better acquaint themselves with the methods and techniques of business in the modern world. Membership was opened to anyone willing to participate wholeheartedly in the affairs of the club, especially those students who had an active interest in the business courses offered at Tee Jay. Members came in contact with the business world through talks and discussions by the various business leaders invited to Thomas Jefferson for that purpose. The guest speakers talked on such subjects as obtaining jobs, teaching business subjects, applying for positions after graduation, and futures for those who would be bookkeepers. On visits to bookkeeping and accounting firms, the students saw for themselves bookkeeping procedures and what would be expected of them when they entered their future vocations. Members not only furthered their interests in obtaining useful knowledge essential in business practices, but they enjoyed recreation in the form of parties

... WALL STREET AWAITS THEE

Through a better understanding of the procedures and requirements of their future vocations, the members of the Business Education Club were prepared for adjusting more readily to the demands of the business world. Any interested student enrolled in at least one business course was eligible for membership in the Club. However, more students were encouraged to join during their Sophomore year so that they would be better prepared for leadership as Seniors. The two meetings a month included one strictly for business and another for special activities. Among the programs were talks by guest speakers, men and women employed in local firms, and tours of various business offices, such as the Esso building. In many of their projects, the Business Education Club worked hand in hand with the Bookkeeping Club, both hoping to achieve similar aims. This year the Club's service to the school was making a Christmas card box available to the student body and delivering the cards to the homerooms before and after school. Also, as a group project, the members worked toward obtaining official pins. The Club's bowling team, formed last year, continued to compete with the teams of other school organizations. This social function in the winter was followed by the annual spring picnic held jointly with the Bookkeeping Club. Guided by Miss Marion F. Smethie, their sponsor, the members have become more fully aware of the responsibilities of a modern business position for which they wish to qualify.

In the laboratory the students were encouraged to observe the first five letters of the word, not the last seven. Hence, the materials for the class had to be prepared before the group entered. Keeping the laboratory constantly ready for these incoming classes involved a great deal of work. To accomplish this, the chemistry lab assistants were assigned one period daily in the lab to prepare chemicals, keep supplies in plentiful quantities, and to run errands. While the work was voluntary, each assistant was required to live up to high standards of character and dependability before he was given the responsibility of handling the valuable equipment and supplies. Similar to the chemistry lab assistants in the responsibilities held and the work done were the biology assistants. Microscopes, slides, and specimens were prepared for all classes, thus relieving the instructors of a portion of the more tedious and time-consuming lab work.

Each Friday at homeroom period the meetings of the Christian Youth League were opened with a bang (of the gavel) followed by a devotional and a guest speaker or discussion. The members, including any students who were interested in enriching their lives through service to others, carried out their theme of union through Christian fellowship in various programs and projects.

Throughout the year the C.Y.L. emphasized aspects of Christian growth and living. For Thanksgiving they prepared a basket of food for the family assigned them by the Salvation Army. They were responsible for this family throughout the school year. During Christmas the C.Y.L. showed the true meaning of the season by filling stockings for the family with such things as toys, candy and cookies. At Easter they prepared Easter baskets for the children.

The C.Y.L. also compiled scrapbooks for several institutions, thus boosting the spirits of many of our city's shut-ins. In future years the group hopes to have teams to dispatch to hospitals and homes in the city to read to the shut-ins and other patients. In this way the members can personally become acquainted with both the physical and spiritual needs of many.

BROTHERHOOD: WE LIVED IT, WE SUPPORTED IT...

By stressing the importance of building character in high school, the Character Committee, a sub-committee of the Senate, hoped to serve not only the students and the school, but also the community and the country. The members, representatives elected from each homeroom, tried to attain this goal through activities that promoted the ideals stated in the school pledge and developed the qualities which mold character. During code-signing week, the members made special announcements in the homerooms and assisted the Honor Council at the polls in the renewing and issuing of honor cards; later, they sponsored devotions on the P. A. system. The generosity and enthusiasm of the student body enabled the Character Committee to carry out successfully the annual Christmas project—providing the children at Hillside Recreation Center with softball uniforms and a slide projector, and donating records and educational toys to the Cooperative Training School. Desiring that students better comprehend the need for peace and understanding among the people of the world, the Character Committee changed the program of the assembly which it sponsors every year during National Brotherhood Week by eliminating speakers representing different religions. With the guidance of the chairman, a Senior Senator, and the sponsor Mrs. Broadus, the Committee presented instead the foreign exchange student and several TJ students who described the brotherhood they had experienced abroad.

...MANY PROJECTS SANCTIONED BY THE "CLUBS' CLUB"

The Club Affiliation Committee, sponsored by Mrs. Katherine Brumble, was composed of the president of each school club and was presided over by the Recording Secretary of the Student Participation. Meeting bi-weekly, this group regulated the time and place of club meetings to avoid conflicts and served to create a feeling of unity among the clubs. The members were required to have all proposed club activities approved by the committee. Constitutions for the organization of new clubs also had to be approved by the group. The chairman of Club Affiliations was also a member of the Board of Coordination and represented all of the clubs in that capacity. In preparation for the Club of the Year Award, each club was required to submit to Club Affiliation Committee its objectives in the fall and an evaluation of its year's activities in the spring. The club's merits were then weighed by the five officers and two sponsors of the Student Participation Association, who made the final decision as to which club would receive the award. Another of Club Affiliations' projects was the Thomas Jefferson-John Marshall football game Homecoming Parade. The highlight of this year's events was the establishment of four new clubs: The Monogram Club, The Russian Club, The Amateur Radio Club and The Debating Society. This increased the membership of Club Affiliation Committee to twenty-eight club representatives.

The William H. Membership was open to all juniors and seniors who had average grades, were interested in the teaching profession, and participated in extra-curricular school and community activities. In the fall, new members were installed at a ceremony held in the Thomas Jefferson rec hall. "High School Preparation for a Teaching Career" and "The Varied Life of a Teacher" were discussed by the two guest speakers, Mr. W. H. Deierhoi and Mrs. Frances Wimer, a former F.T.A. sponsor. Members of the chapter, sponsored by Mr. Russell Norment, served as ushers for the Virginia Education Association convention held in Richmond. As a sign of their school spirit, members decorated a car for the Tee Jay-Jay Em football game. They also took on the responsibility of keeping the teachers' lounges neat and attractive. To make students more aware of the work of the faculty, the group sponsored Teacher Appreciation Week. The year was climaxed by a "Visitation Day" during which all the senior members had the opportunity of working with various teachers and their pupils at several elementary schools in the city. Through their participation in the bi-monthly business and program meetings and in the numerous other activities, the F.T.A. members gained a greater insight into the problems and the rewards of a teaching career.

HISTORICAL-MINDED STUDENTS STUDIED CURRENT EVENTS...

With a completely re-vamped program and a more interested and active group, the Forum placed its emphasis this year on current events, in particular; the effects of world developments on political, social, and economic conditions within the United States. The focal point of everyone's interest during the fall term was, of course, the presidential election. Within the Forum itself the group held a mock election and heard a Richmond lawyer explain the pros and cons of our present electoral college system. To stimulate more active interest and participation in the election the Forum sponsored its own "Great Debate" after school, at which Mr. Calvin Clarke, from the Republican Party, and Mr. Griffin Purcell, from the Democrats, debated their party's platforms. The floor was then thrown open to the students for questioning.

Opinions were varied and feelings ran high, but all were made more aware of the role they could play in the campaigns. Later in the year the Forum took charge of the bulletin boards, featuring displays explaining new political developments, world "hot spots," and the history and growth of this Forum itself. Just prior to the opening of the Civil War Centennial, the Forum produced an assembly program to introduce the purposes and activities of the Centennial, stressing those activities of most interest to Virginians. In the late spring the group, along with other interested students, took its annual trip to Washington, D. C. While there they visited an embassy, the Capitol, the F.B.I. building, the wax museum and had a conference with a Virginia representative. In all, the Forum had one of its busiest years.

... STUDENTS RECEIVED EDUCATION AND EARNED MONEY

By forming the D. E. Club, it was possible to give high school students the basic training necessary to enter a suitable profession. The Club at Thomas Jefferson is only one of many similar groups which are divisions of a nation-wide organization, the Distributive Education Clubs of America. Through films and talks by guest speakers, weekly meetings supplied the members with information and advice on subjects relative to their course of study. Centering around the theme of "Future Unlimited," a series of assemblies was presented as the Club's main project of the year. In this way, the student body was able to explore a wide field of occupations available to future citizens. Installation of officers took place at one of the two joint meetings, which were held with the D. E. Clubs from two other Richmond high schools. As a significant part of their extra-curricular program, the members competed in district, state, and national contests. Among the three Tee Jay students who received honors in city-wide competition were a first-place winner in the merchandise presentation, a third-place winner in the job interview contest, and a nominee for parliamentarian of the state D. E. association. Membership in the D. E. Club at Tee Jay included all those enrolled in the Distributive Education course. Throughout the year, supervision and guidance in Club activities were offered by the faculty adviser, Mrs. Vivian Ely, who was also the D. E. co-ordinator.

...AS COUNCIL WENT SO WENT THE HOMEROOMS

Although the Council of Homeroom Presidents of Thomas Jefferson did not function as an executive or lawmaking body, it proved its worth by acting as a strong unifying force between the homeroom and room 408—the seat of the school government. The ship of state at Tee Jay sails as strongly as the breeze that moves it. If the wind is weak, the ship does not sail. If the breeze is firm and strong, the ship sails smoothly and unerringly. So it is with the homeroom and S. P.—strong homeroom government, strong school government, but weak homerooms, weak school government. Hence, above all else, the Council endeavored to help the homeroom president conduct his meetings in an orderly and intelligent manner. In this way, problems and questions of the student were brought forth more clearly and passed on more readily to the S. P. The big problem facing the Council was that of the behavior of students during weekly assembly programs. A committee was formed to delve into the problem, find the causes, and suggest ways to correct it. Some of the suggestions included fewer assemblies, stressing quality, not quantity; more interesting and informative programs and speakers, and a pledge to be signed by those willing to show courtesy and respect in assemblies. The Council of Homeroom Presidents with the assistance of Mrs. Katherine Brumble, sponsor, prepared a portfolio on the subject of leadership. This folder was to be available to all homeroom and club presidents for their future use.

As a part of the junior branch of the Richmond area central Young Women's Christian Association, the Y-Teens organization is dedicated to promoting better understanding between people of various nationalities and religions and to building fellowship among girls throughout the school. Through membership in the Y-Teens organization every girl is given an opportunity to develop her ability as a leader and broaden her horizons. Working closely with their faculty sponsor, Mrs. Plaisted, the members have had a year full of fun.

Le Cercle Francais was organized at Thomas Jefferson to increase knowledge acquired in the French classes by giving a broader insight into the culture and traditions of the French people and their country. To accomplish this, the French Club presented a series of appropriate and informative programs at the bi-monthly meetings. A talk given by a guest French teacher and a program emphasizing the music and art of France were among the varied subjects covered at the meetings. A trip to the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts made it possible for the students to become better acquainted with French artists and their works. At this time the members were also afforded an opportunity to develop fluency with the language by practicing conversational French. This year, for the first time, French Club pins were made available to the members. Spring activities included holding a French dinner and attending the Foreign Language Banquet. Through the help of their sponsor, Miss Eunice V. Gill, the members have achieved both improvement in the skills of using French and familiarity with the French-speaking people and their culture.

GERMAN CUSTOMS STUDIED BY YOUNG HERREN, FRAULEINS...

A recently established organization, Der Deutscher Verein is evidence of a growing interest in the German language at Thomas Jefferson. With the supervision of Mr. Kesler, the Club sponsor, the members designed programs appropriate to the current curriculum of study. The bi-monthly meetings consisted of skits, games, discourses on German foods and customs, music by German composers and movies of political, social, and economic conditions in Germany. German Week was launched with colorful maps and travel posters, portraying various aspects of urban and provincial life in Germany. Working with the German III Club, the students produced an assembly program, emphasizing different phases of German culture—music, literature, science and drama. Both Clubs also worked together in the parade at the Tee Jay-Jay Em football game. At Thanksgiving, the members filled a basket with canned goods and furnished a needy family with food and gifts. To augment their studies, the Club maintained a correspondence with a student in Germany. Other group activities included a Christmas party and a picnic in the Spring. During their first year of studying German, the members of Der Deutscher Verein have not only gained an introduction to the language, but have also cultivated a general knowledge of the background, traditions, and accomplishments of the country and its inhabitants.

In its first year under the sponsorship of Mr. William Kesler, "Der Burschenschaft" has aimed to help the student develop familiarity with all phases of German culture, from pretzels to "Die Fledermaus." The members, second-year German students, participated in numerous projects and school functions. Bi-monthly meetings centered around a variety of informative programs, featuring films depicting German life, original skits in German, spelling bees, and song fests. To demonstrate their school spirit, the club sponsored a float in the traditional Tee Jay-Jay Em football game. In addition, they presented an original version of "little Red Riding Hood" in the German Club's assembly. At Thanksgiving and Christmas, the group supplied a needy family with baskets of food and gifts, and, in the spring, several students took part in the program at the Foreign Language Banquet. Through their various activities and service projects, the members feel that they have acquired a greater appreciation for and understanding of the German people their customs, and their country.

Named for their former sponsor, Harry A. Woody, this group of boys worked together for the improvement of our school and city. Mr. Woody, a former teacher at Thomas Jefferson High School, was deeply interested in young people. He promoted this service organization for boys and therefore strengthened the character through all of Thomas Jefferson as well as that of the members. The club has continued active work even after Mr. Woody's retirement in 1957. They work co-operatively in an attempt to fulfill worthwhile goals.

Membership is limited to thirty sophomore, junior, and senior boys. In order to obtain entrance, a written application must be filed. These are read, reviewed, screened, and voted on by the members.

All of the club's projects are aimed at improvement in our school and city. One of the projects carried out by the boys was the wearing of suits once a week to improve the appearance in dress at school. The boys promoted better manners and behavior in the lunchrooms, and aided the school by sanding some of the desks.

... HI-Y, HI-INTELLIGENCE, HI-INTEGRITY

The Hi-Y, Chapter II, endeavored to set a good example of clean living, clean speech, superior scholarship and sportsmanship. The main objectives of Hi-Y were to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character and fellowship. Since the Hi-Y clubs were closely affiliated with the Young Men's Christian Association, many of the activities of the Thomas Jefferson chapter took place at the downtown YMCA building on Franklin Street. The facilities of the "Y" were also made available to other Richmond area Hi-Y chapters. Hi-Y II met almost every Tuesday of the school year for a formal business meeting followed by some form of planned activity. The Hi-Y's social function of the year was the annual dance held Friday, December 9, in the gymnasium. Although not obligated to do so, Hi-Y members served in the "Rec" Hall and cafeteria to help maintain order, relieve congestion, and keep the floors and tables free of trash. Aside from these various school projects, the Hi-Y of Thomas Jefferson, along with the Hi-Y clubs from other schools, participated in city-wide project, with each chapter contributing time, work, and money. The Hi-Y, Chapter II, of Thomas Jefferson was not only interested in training its members physically and mentally, but it also strived to develop high ideals and standards of good conduct.

HONOR COUNCIL: Mary Mena Gill, Sally Gabb, Ellen Heflin, Gene Overton, Melvin Brannan, Billy Ackerman, Nancy Ruckman, Lynn Vogel, John Gooch, as they prepare to present an assembly program.

BE HONEST, IN THOUGHT, IN WORD, IN DEED...

The Honor Council strives to promote the building of good character by supporting the ideals expressed in the school pledge—honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority. A desire for greater respect of the honor card caused council members to increase the opportunity for active student participation in the honor system. With the 1960-1961 Council chairman elected by popular vote, not by the old system of appointment from the Council membership, it was hoped that the leadership of the Honor Council gained greater importance and that the honor code was given more meaning to the general student body. In order to make the students more tully aware of the solemnity and significance of the pledge signed at polls during a week in October, the Honor Council sponsored assemblies which stressed the effect of honesty in high school on future happiness and success and placed in each classroom a poster bearing the new theme, "Today We Are Building Tomorrow's Character." To further strengthen the force of the honor system, the Honor Council heard and acted upon any violation of the honor code and answered questions of the students about the honor system. It was the Council's hope that the seventy-three per cent of the student body who had voluntarily requested the renewal of their old honor cards or the issuance of new ones had done so thoughtfully and with sincere intentions.

... "CLUB OF LAST YEAR" SOUGHT TO BE "CLUB OF THIS YEAR"

The Key Club of Thomas Jefferson High School looks for character, high scholarship and leadership abilities in a prospective member. Hence the "key," or outstanding, young men compose the Key Club. The value of any club or social organization is determined by popular opinion. So it is the duty of every member of the Key Club to co-operate in creating and maintaining sound public opinion and high idealism in speech, thoughts, and actions. Since every Key Club must be sponsored and superintended by some Kiwanis Club, these privileged boys have the opportunity to establish personal contacts with prominent educational, religious, business, professional and civic leaders. A Key Club member must develop not only his own initiative and character, but, by correction of his faults and mistakes, a more serviceable and willing citizenship. It is also impressed upon the boy that spiritual goals in life should be sought more aggressively than materialistic gains. These humanistic values were inspired in various ways. The Key Club made Christmas and Thanksgiving cheerful for a needy family by collecting food and buying clothing and furniture for them. Club members patrolled the Rec Hall, helping to keep the tables and floor free of trash. On the basis of these services the Key Club was in the running for a second "Club of the Year" award. They Key Club of Thomas Jefferson has truly striven to follow its international motto "We Build."

As a six-page bi-weekly publication, The Jeffersonian covered topics from important events of great public concern to the incidental adventures of an unfortunate Freshman. Within the news, feature, and sports sections were several new articles. This year, for the first time, the paper presented a news commentary, "What in the World," discussing current international affairs. Also in the spotlight were "Passing the Buck," the sports column, and "Through the Keyhole," a mysterious feature article. Along with the page editors, the department heads distributed assignments, measured and proofread copy, drew up dummies, and wrote headlines. Pictures were taken and developed by student photographers and then sent to the engraver. Under the direction of the faculty adviser, Miss Estelle Tankard, the staff met two periods a day. Composed of those in top positions, the editorial board controlled the policies of the paper and was responsible for the editorial column. Several members of the staff attended the Columbia Press Conference in New York, where the rating of The Jeffersonian was received. Later, delegates were sent to Lexington to participate in the S.I.P.A. Conference. Outstanding students were nominated for membership in Quill and Scroll, and at the annual spring picnic, staff members for the next year were announced.

Without the efforts of the two sections of the Jeffersonian Business Staff—the Circulation Staff and the Advertising Staff—the Thomas Jefferson newspaper would be financially impossible. The Circulation Staff, composed of lieutenants and Captains, is responsible for the collection of subscription money and the distribution of the finished product. The lieutenants handled the former while the captains folded and delivered the papers to the individual homerooms. Soliciting the ads and placing them in the paper were the basic duties of the Advertising Staff. Through the continuous efforts of each member, the staff managed to support the paper effectively. Not only did it furnish a medium between the business world and the student body, but the work informed the members concerning the fundamentals of business.

STUDENTS PLEDGED UNSELFISH SERVICE TO OTHERS...

As an active branch of the American Red Cross, the Thomas Jefferson chapter attempts to serve those in its country, community and school, and above all to cultivate international friendship. Representatives from each homeroom attended the bi-weekly meeting, where future plans and ideas were formulated, examined, compiled, and discussed. The progress of the council was related back to the homerooms by the respective representatives, thus enabling all students to play a significant role in the various service projects. In early fall, a thorough enrollment campaign was carried out, in which many homerooms achieved one hundred percent membership. Later, volunteers for hospital aid were sent to the Medical College of Virginia, E. G. Williams, and McGuire's Hospitals, while others rendered their services in a local nursing home. In addition, a Christmas party was provided for the children's ward at M.C.V. As their most important project, the members packed relief boxes, which were sent to victims of the earthquake disaster in Chile. The vice-president of the council at Tee Jay also acted as president of the city Red Cross committee, and was later a delegate to the area council in Arlington. Still another member served as the chairman of the Richmond Disaster Team. Through chapters in the schools, the Junior Red Cross Journal was distributed to the representatives and thus made available to all students. In the spring an awards assembly was held, at which Junior Red Cross members received pins and certificates for twenty-five hours of volunteer work. Sponsored by Miss Helen Coleman, the Junior Red Cross of Thomas Jefferson has tried to further its goal of promoting good will and serving those in need.

SIC SEMPER TYRANNUS, E PLURIBUS UNUM—THAT'S LATIN...

The Societas Latina, better known as the Latin Club, met once a month during class period. The Latin Club had two divisions, the Fautores Fideles Ciceronis and the Aeneadae. Prerequisites to membership in the club were enrollment in a third- or fourth-year Latin class and a special interest in the language. The main purposes were to promote interest in Latin, to show how it influenced daily life, and to encourage other students to study this classical language. These purposes were carried out in Latin Week, when the Latin Club, under the guidance of Miss Fitzhugh, sponsored morning devotions, made posters for halls, bulletin boards, doors and rooms, and had its members wear signs proclaiming the slogan of the week, "Latina Vivit." The Latin Club also encouraged Latin study when its members went to several of Richmond's junior high schools to promote interest in the study of higher Latin to students making out their five-year high school plans. At the meetings of the Club, various members gave programs on different phases of Latin. Programs also included films, slides, and speeches by outstanding speakers. All the programs helped the members of the Latin Club gain a greater knowledge, understanding, and appreciation of Roman cultural background. Records of what the Club has done and articles that have been helpful to the students were kept in a scrapbook made by each division. To this scrapbook was added pictures of the final event of the school year: a picnic to which Latin classes of other schools were invited.

A librarian's work is never done! To assist the librarians in their many duties and to become familiar with the various aspects of library work were the objectives of the student assistants of the librarians, better known as the Library Staff. To become an assistant, the students were required to pass all their subjects and be interested in library work. Receiving books, answering questions, shelving books, and carrying necessary messages were some of the main duties they performed. By alternating jobs every week the staff members familiarized themselves with as many jobs as possible. The assistance of these students in the tasks which were time consuming but took little training enabled the librarians to devote their time to work which required their education and experience. Because they met only twice each semester, the members voted to keep the same officers for the whole year. In the spring the Staff, through projects and announcements, publicized the purpose of National Library Week, which was to emphasize the reading of books.

Although the content of the MONTICELLO was handled by the Literary Staff, the MONTICELLO Business Staff was a most important part of the annual staff at Thomas Jefferson. Responsible for the fiscal aspects of the MONTICELLO, the Business Staff was busy most of the year soliciting ads and publicizing the book. Their first duty, soliciting ads, was done by dispatching different members of the staff to the various business concerns in the city which were interested in advertising in the book. Next, the acquired ads were arranged according to the layout of the ad section of the yearbook; and finally the section was sent to the printer. During the subscription drive, the familiar slogan, "Buy the MONTICELLO," was heard throughout the school. As a result, over half the student body bought The MONTICELLO. In June, the staff was responsible for distributing the finished product to the students and selling plastic book covers for those who wanted to take special care of their books. These efforts of the Business Staff were the major factors in the sale of the book.

Two copies were made, one for the printer and the other for staff proof. The staff artist submitted the cover design and drawings for approval. spent hours developing these shots, the best of which were cropped into place by the pix editor. Meanwhile, the copy section wrote the headlines, captions, picture identifications, and copy blocks, with the character count needed to fulfill the layout requirements. These were "deciphered" by the typists and typed with a carbon copy of each. This book is the result of the staff's work. Each section, however, learned more than the yearbook procedure. Working together, they developed an appreciation of accuracy and cooperation.

MINOR LEAGUERS WORKED FOR BIG BREAK...

A section of the vocal department at Tee Jay, the Preparatory Choir is made up of about thirty girls whose main objective is enrollment in the A Capella Choir. This year the members of the Preparatory Choir worked constantly toward this end. By listening to concerts and recorded music, by studying music theory and appreciation, and by learning the history of music through the lives of the world's great composers, the members gained a thorough knowledge of music in many forms. Experience in performing was gained by singing in the Thanksgiving Assembly and by performing in the programs presented within the class. The Preparatory Choir rehearsed every day during the fourth period. Mr. Howell, the director, was often helped by the officers: Pat Miller, president; Carol Lumpkin, vice-president; Carolyn Crawley, secretary-treasurer, and Garnett Parker and Barbara Grizzard, librarians.

STUDENTS TOOK PART IN OPERETTA...

Tucker Hill displays the mosaic poster he made for publicity for "Finian's Rainbow."

The A Cappella Choir was made up of about eighty of Tee Jay's best voice students. Members were picked from the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs each year to fill vacancies left by choir members who had graduated or left school. The Choir met every day during fifth period to rehearse and to study music theory and form. By singing all kinds of music and by critically listening to concerts, the members increased their knowledge and appreciation of the world's great music. This musical background enabled the Choir to perform better the varied programs it presented throughout the school year. The Thanksgiving assembly, the Christmas program, the Brotherhood assembly, Baccalaureate, and Commencement were some of the school functions for which the choir provided a musical background. Outside of school it presented a Christmas program for the Central Downtown Richmond Rotary Club and for the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce. Christmas was a busy time for Choir members, for they also participated in the annual performance of Handel's "Messiah," held at the Mosque. Selected members of the Choir represented Thomas Jefferson at the Eastern Virginia All-State Chorus, held at R.P.I. the weekend of February 18 and 19. Tee Jay's entire music department participated in the spring concert, performing a variety of vocal and instrumental music. The year was climaxed by the operetta, "Finian's Rainbow." After much hard work, under the direction of Mary Ellen Harvey and Pat Miller, it was presented early in May.

POT OF GOLD FOUND AT THE END OF "FINIAN'S RAINBOW"...

J. J. Jepson as Og the leprechaun and Henry Currie as Finian rehearse after school for the operetta.

Early in the school year the A Cappella Choir began thinking about the annual operetta. After discussing various possibilities the Choir chose "Finian's Rainbow," and Mary Ellen Harvey and Pat Miller were made directors. Auditions for parts began just after the Christmas holidays. Mr. Howell and Mrs. Margaret Eddington advised the casting committee as it selected the leads, which included Henry Curry, Brenda Barden, Tucker Hill, J. J. Jepson, and Pat Goldman. Not only members of the A Cappella Choir participated in the operetta; there were regular students in the cast and on the committees. Tee Jay's entire music department participated actively in the presentation of the operetta. The orchestra with several band members joined the Choir for the numerous rehearsals and the performances on May 11 and 12.

... MEMBERS PARTICIPATED IN ASSEMBLY, OPERETTA

Whether the music was classical or "pops," the orchestra could be found practicing in the band room every day at fifth period. This group of musicians was always ready and willing to provide music for school programs. They created the proper atmosphere for assemblies, such as the Brotherhood, Thanksgiving, and Christmas assemblies. They played in the Music Festival and also supplied the accompaniment for the annual presentation at the Mosque of Handel's "Messiah." While the orchestra as a whole participated in the above mentioned activities, many individual players were chosen by the conductor to take part in the All State Band and the All State String Orchestra. Several other outstanding students were members of the Richmond Symphony. To encourage top performances, Mr. Wendt, the director, held sectional try-outs when he felt a need for them. For their major undertaking of the spring semester, the orchestra gave their annual Spring Concert, in April. The funds raised by this project were used to help finance more music and new instruments. During the following month, the orchestra and Mr. Wendt spent most of its time and took great pains in the perfection of the accompaniment to "Finian's Rainbow," the operetta given by the A Cappella Choir. In the past the group has also accompanied "Carousel," "Kismet," and "Brigadoon." Through the numerous and varied activities in which the orchestra members have engaged, this group has provided pleasure for itself as well as others, encouraged music appreciation and provided an opportunity for the development of student talent.

OUR FUTURE GOOD HEALTH MAY BE IN THEIR HANDS...

Anyone who was interested in some field of medicine could join the Medical Arts Club, sponsored by Mrs. Albert Edmonds and Mrs. Lawrence Snead of the Women's Auxiliary to the Richmond Academy of Medicine and by Mrs. Thomas Sweet representing the school. The purposes of the club were to help those members who had decided which field of medicine they wished to enter to become better informed about that field; to help those members who were undecided, to decide which field they wished to enter; and finally, to help all the members decide whether or not they really wanted to pursue a medical profession.

Speakers, discussions, and field trips pertaining to various aspects of medicine were all factors which contributed to the fulfilling of these purposes. Among other programs, there were talks and discussions on physical therapy, nursing, medicine in general; and field trips to the Medical College of Virginia Department of Physical Medicine, the University of Virginia School of Nursing, and a surgical research department at McGuire Hospital which was especially interesting, for, among other things, the club members were able to witness the actual beating of a man's heart on closed circuit television.

Besides its regular activities, the Medical Arts Club also shouldered several projects during the year. Chief among these was the sponsoring of a needy family for whom club members brought food, clothing, and toys at Thanksgiving and Christmas time.

New members were appointed each semester to give as many students as possible an opportunity to serve on the Radio Committee.

The stage crew was responsible for the stage lighting, the drawing of curtains, and the operation of microphones. They prepared for the assembly programs and cleaned the stage after all functions. Members of the stage crew were on duty every period to help those who wished to use the stage. Though rarely seen, they played the supporting role for all performances.

Pep Club membership, expanded from seventy-five to ninety, was comprised of all varsity cheerleaders, the two junior cheerleaders, two junior varsity cheerleaders, and pupils chosen from the student body at large on the basis of written applications. In addition, this year's candidates were required to submit three suggestions for the improvement of school spirit, one of the Pep Club's goals. As in the past, red and white pins shaped like megaphones and inscribed with "Tee Jay Pep Club" officially signified membership. Emphasizing good sportsmanship as an essential to the enjoyment of friendly competition, members assisted the cheerleaders in some of their duties and undertook several projects, one of which was the making of posters for the halls and shakers to be used at games. In the fall the Pep Club served the school and promoted its purposes by selecting L'll Jeff, the spirit of Tee Jay, from the Senior Class, by decorating a float used by Miss Jeff and her court at the annual Thomas Jefferson-John Marshall football game, and by attending games and pep rallies as a group. Under the guidance of the sponsor, Mr. Carmack, decals were sold to students to raise funds for these activities. To strengthen the effectiveness of the Pep Club, to define the purposes more clearly, and to enable the club as a whole to function more efficiently, the constitution was revised during the spring and plans were made for projects to be undertaken during the coming year.

MEMBERS STRIVED FOR HIGH JOURNALISTIC IDEALS..

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set ye free." The motto of the Quill and Scroll Society stressed truth as the watchword of journalists. It was with this thought in mind that the Quill and Scroll strove to promote interest in journalism and its related fields. Through the common interest of communicating our ideals and aspirations to other countries, the Quill and Scroll also sought to establish peace, understanding and brotherhood. The Ellen Glasgow Chapter of the Quill and Scroll at Thomas Jefferson was an active honor society. Consisting of outstanding members from the staffs of Thomas Jefferson's publications, the annual, "The Monticello," and the bi-weekly newspaper, "The Jeffersonian," it recognized those students dedicated to their jobs. mended by the sponsor of his publication and approved by the Executive Secretary of the Quill and Scroll. Members were inducted at two ceremonies, one held in the fall and one in the spring. Through a candlelight ceremony presented by the members, the initiates learned the principles of journalism. After new members received their Quill and Scroll pins, all attended a reception held in their honor. The monthly meetings contained programs about journalism and related fields. At the club's invitation, Charles McDowell, columnist for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, spoke to the members and other interested students. The year ended with the annual picnic during which officers for the coming year were elected. Under the guidance of faculty sponsors, Miss Lowance and Miss Tankard, members of the Quill and Scroll enjoyed a full and informative year.

AMBITION PLUS TALENT EQUALS SCIENCE CLUB MEMBER...

Sponsored by Mrs. Finch, biology teacher, the Science Club has striven throughout the year to insure and promote both practical and technical inquisitiveness in the field of science. Through various projects, programs, and trips to scientific institutions, the members tried to attain their goal. A member of the Junior Academy of Science, the Club entered the Academy competition at the University of Richmond. It was here that the worry and work on the year's projects was rewarded. Having placed in this contest, several members went to the state competition at Lexington, Virginia. Although only a few members actually competed, a goal of the Club was to interest all members in undertaking projects. The Club meetings were held once a month and usually involved committee reports on projects and planning for the next tour of some local science institution. These trips were the backbone of the activities of the "junior Einsteins." They went to the Bell Telephone Business office, where three movies concerning electronics were viewed. They also visited the Valentine Museum where they participated in a program entitled "Time and the Telephone." This consisted of an exhibition of the development of the telephone from the early 1900's to the present day. Throughout the year certain members attended science meetings in the local area. To highlight the year with frivolity, some of the "test tubers" helped decorate the Science Club float for the Tee Jay-Jay Em football game in November.

The Thomas Jefferson Spanish Club was organized to furnish interested students with an opportunity to increase their understanding of the culture and civilization of the Spanish-speaking countries. The main project of the group was participation in the Magazines for Friendship Movement. Through this program, which originated at Occidental College in Los Angeles, California, different magazines were sent to students in Spain and Latin American countries. As each magazine contained a sticker with the student's name and address on it, the members hoped to start correspondence with foreign students, thus helping promote international friendships. To raise money for club activities, personal stationery was sold during the year. At the bi-monthly meetings held at home-room period, students enjoyed programs based on Spanish countries, including slides and guests from these areas. Under the sponsorship of Miss Elizabeth Beaman, the members were able to supplement their class activities with further study about the Spanish-speaking countries.

TEBAHOES, TO BE HONEST IN ATHLETICS...

"Ray, rah, the faculty!" One minute to go and the score stood at eighty to one in favor of the teachers, those staid custodians of learning who were all decked out to meet the students in the annual Teacher-Tebahoes basketball game. Of course, the fact that the faculty gained ten points for each score while the Tebahoes were only allowed one each may have influenced the result, but everyone was laughing too hard to notice that slight oversight on the part of the scorer. The rules of the game, which the Tebahoes had worked to publicize, were thrown to the winds and, all in fun, everyone concentrated on enjoying the "sport." This game has become a part of Tee Jay's tradition. The Tebahoes—"te" for tennis, "ba" for basketball, "hoe" for hockey, and "s" for softball —was the girls' athletic association of Thomas Jefferson. Only those girls who had won a varsity letter in one of these activities, who continued to be active in at least one sport, were invited to become members. Membership was limited to thirty girls, so co-operation, character, and the spirit to uphold the high ideals of sportsmanship were also considered. Aside from the Teacher-Tebahoes game, which was the club's money-making project, the group also presented a skit for the Freshman Assembly. At the end of the year, awards according to the number of years a girl had played on a varsity team—a letter for the first year, a medal the second, a charm the third, and a bracelet the fourth—were given at the Athletic Banquet.

Primarily organized to spread friendship and understanding throughout the world, the various Y-Teens chapters have enlarged their goals to include service to the school and to the community. Y-Teens, Triangle II, a junior division of the Young Women's Christian Association, holds membership open to all interested girls. For the entire year, the club undertook sponsorship of a needy family, presenting them with a Christmas tree, gifts, food, and, later, Easter outfits. To follow up their welfare work, the members supplied Halloween favours for patients at McGuire Hospital and packed small Christmas boxes for those in the City Home without relatives. A trip to Washington, D. C., enabled several students to attend the national Y-Teen worship service in October. A paper drive and a hayride also highlighted the Fall activities. In order to make known the general principles and achievements of their organization, the club sponsored Y-Teen Week. With their faculty adviser, Miss Joan Dillard, Triangle II has had a full year.

SUCCESSFUL SPORTSMEN WON LETTERS...

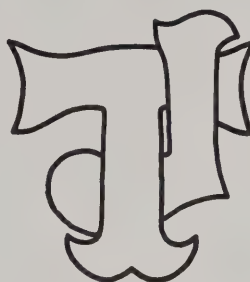

The Monogram Club was formed in February of this year to recognize varsity athletes and to create interest in sports at Tee Jay. Composed of all boys who have received letters in varsity sports, the club did much this year to encourage participation in and support of athletics. One of the club's activities was to make recommendations concerning possible changes in the monogram award. Other projects, designed to aid the overall athletic program and to encourage support of the spring sports, were undertaken throughout the spring. Much planning was done this spring on the club's house party, held in June. The house party provided a fine climax for a very active first year of existence for the Monogram Club. It is felt that in the coming years, the Monogram Club will be of even more value to athletics.

The officers of the new Monogram Club, Mark Probst, Bill Skinner, Tommy Probst, Archie Berkley, and Billy Slate examine their write-ups in the Jeffersonian.

The Bernstein twins, Pat and Joyce, stitch the monograms on the sweaters which they will wear as sweethearts of the Monogram Club.

Generalship

Robert E. Lee, the general, was a calm, poised force on the battlefield, but poise alone would not win battles. A trained strategist with a logical mind developed by strict discipline, Lee was able to visualize the whole field in perspective. His calculated audacity often brought success, but he was willing to take a risk only when the possible gain was greater than that risk. He worked with both advantages and hindrances. While fighting in familiar territory in defense of his homeland, he nevertheless commanded an amateur army which was often crucially short of supplies. Yet he would not tolerate slovenly habits in his officers, for he felt that a man who could not control himself could not control others and he was quick to place a strong leader where he could do the most good. He had such a keen understanding of the potential in a body of soldiers that he was capable of exacting from his men the utmost in loyalty, fighting spirit and performance. Above all, he was always able to maintain hope; therefore he commanded fantastic devotion from his followers both on the field, behind the lines and at home. Since the days of Lee's generalship, equipment has changed conditions. The whole perspective of war has altered drastically, yet the training, discipline and self control which made Lee a good commander makes the modern day soldier a reliable weapon of our national defense. In the Thomas Jefferson Cadet Corps the cadets are instructed in discipline, military courtesy, and leadership qualities as well as in basic training in marksmanship, field sanitation, map reading, first aid, small unit tactics and communications. Through this training the Military Department is trying to instill in its members a self-confidence and control which will serve them in every phase of their lives—military or civilian.

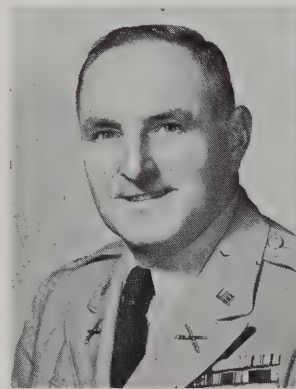

Barbara Hopson and Barry Crittenden present the Competitive Drill Trophy to Beth Turner and John McKendrick, the captain and sponsor of the winning company.

COMPETITIVE DRILL IS THE MOST EXCITING PART OF MILITARY TRAINING...

This year marked one of many changes for the Corps. Calisthenics were added to the military training, military classrooms were improved by more careful planning, and the companies were reduced to one platoon instead of the usual two. Cadets on the penalty squad performed exercises with rifles instead of marching them off as before. Even with changes, the usual activities were continued: two cadet hops, the semi-annual Competitive Drills, two Sponsors' Days, the annual Government Inspection, and individual company activities. For many cadets, the Cadet Graduation meant the completion of three years of military training.

Lee is so often praised for his quiet dignity, his calm confidence and his unending courtesy that he is easily visualized as a figure aloof, to be respected but not touched. One has only to regard his many friends to know that he was a man of warmth, of great personal appeal; a man who attracted and held people, who made close and lasting friends. In the eyes of his classmates he was sympathetic and kind, genial and gay, correct, yet never stiff. His sensitive nature, sincerity and tact brought quick understanding and confidence from both young and old. He was the same to all men, never pretentious or self-conscious. Age made no difference to him. In fact, "Jeb" Stuart, to whom he was very close, was a fellow classmate of his son. The laughing and gay side of Lee has been overshadowed by the graver picture history has painted, and it is no wonder, for he lived at the center of much sorrow and pain and he felt acutely the distress of others. His family adored him, his contemporaries loved him, and his posterity, in a sense, has revered him; for Lee was a man of deep and genuine humility, a friendly man.

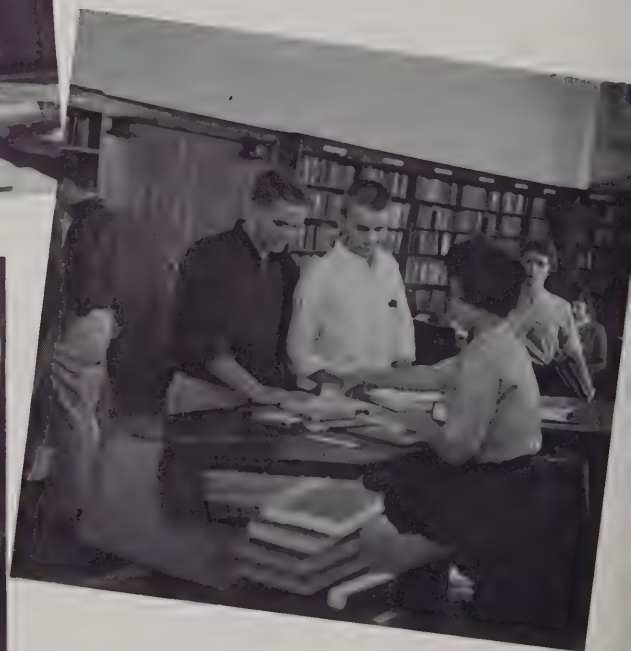

In the regular course of our school days we all have a chance to meet and make many friends, some of whom we may know for the rest of our lives. Serious or gay in the classroom, excited or tense in sports events, entertained or entertaining, at ease or rushed, working or playing, no matter what the activity or emotion, we are together, learning to recognize and develop the traits which create true friendships and lasting memories. Will we, as Lee was, be regarded as genuine, friendly people?

AND THEY'RE OFF...

Meade Pratali, Paul Cantor, Steve East, and Birch Douglass run off tests for teachers before school in the audio visual room.

Susan Lewis reports on a novel which she has just read.

Dale Frankel checks out books before school.

S. P. officers sell "Interpreters" to new students.

Ellen Heflin and Peggy Bell post signs advertising the 1961 Monticello.

Captain Yacenko and members of the Russian class make plans for the new Russian Club.

The cafeteria maids serve the third lunch of the day.

Beverly Lipscomb arranges pictures on a class bulletin board.

From the time the first bell rang at 8:40 to the last one at 3:10 the school day was crammed with activity. Even before school, the students arrived with things to do. After announcements and devotions, classes were conducted until homeroom period. The classes then continued until the lunch period, after which classes resumed until the last bell, when students meet to chat over the day's activities and tomorrow's homework.

Susan Todd, Joey Smith, Rose Hancock and Billy (Stutz) Hatfield chat after school.

In the Senior Class Play preview assembly, "The Curious Savage" is presented in the form of a "This Is Your Life" program by Amanda Eddington.

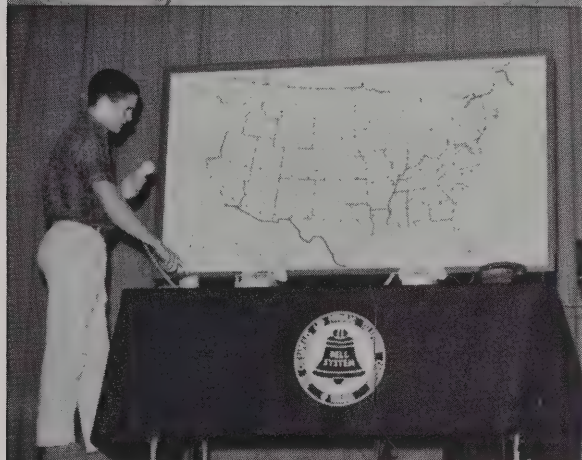

Mrs. Savage and the inmates appear with all their idiosyncrasies in a scene in the assembly.

Spirits are high as Amanda Eddington "appears" (in spirit and in truth) pleased with the recognition the cast of "The Curious Savage" and Mrs. Lambert are receiving after their last curtain call.

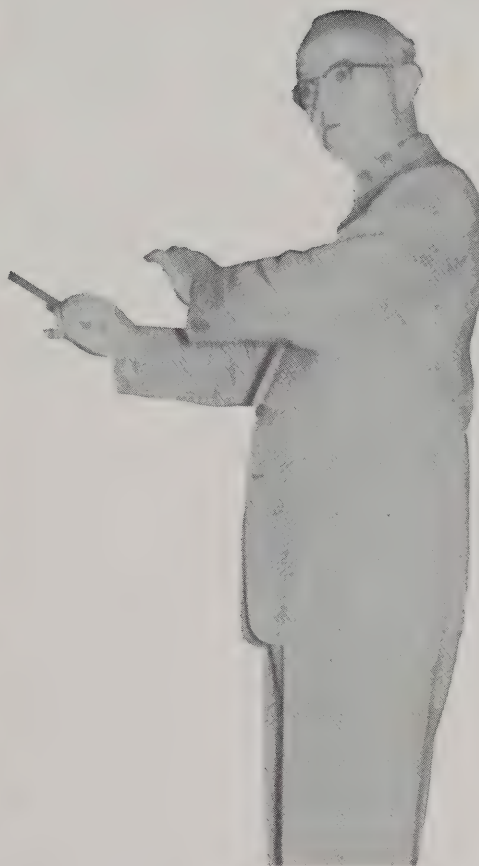

...CHAUCER, TRIG, ASSEMBLIES VIED FOR STUDENTS' ATTENTION

Prior to taking his oath of installation, Gene Overton, S. P. president, stands listening to the qualifications read by Mr. Brock. By placing a "demonstration call" to California in assembly Harry Pollard illustrates Direct Distance Dialing to the student body.

During the Band Concert, J. J. Jepson plays a unique instrument—the typewriter.

Mr. Wendt looks toward the percussion section as he conducts the Tee Jay orchestra.

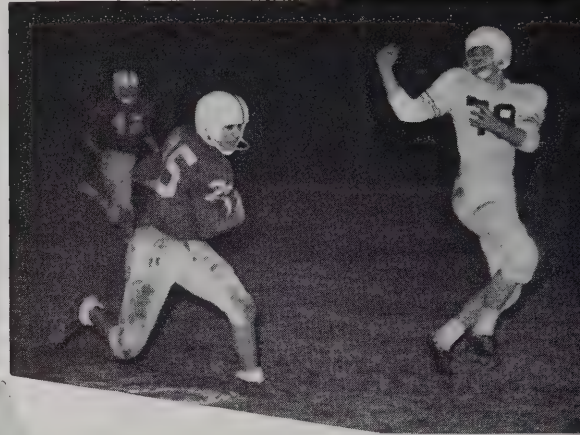

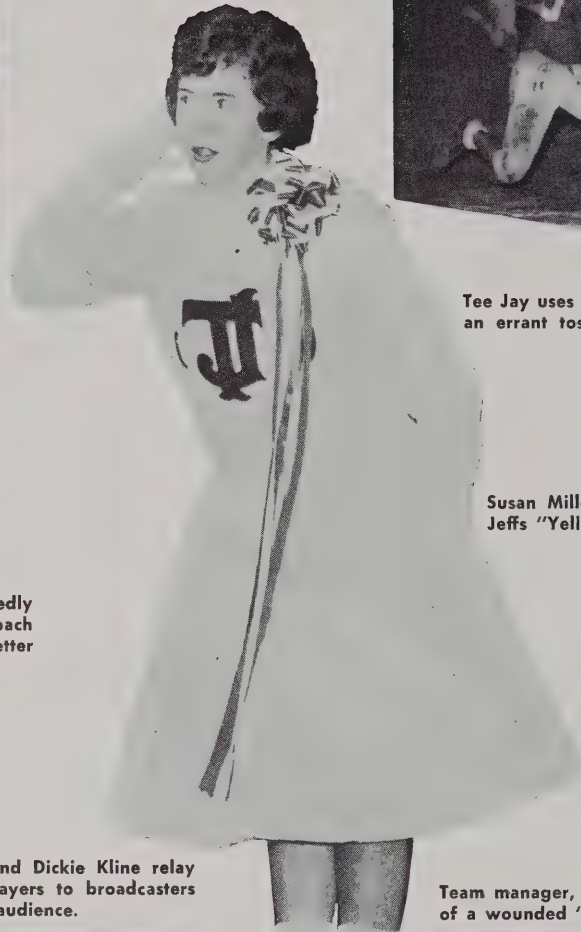

The assemblies, held every week during home-room period, served many purposes. The school officers were installed and forthcoming specials were previewed. They were a means by which the public could demonstrate new methods to the whole student body, as in the Direct Distance Dialing assembly. Some of the programs were for pure entertainment. In such cases the students themselves demonstrated their musical, dramatic and oratorical talents. Concerts were given, a play was sponsored and many speakers were heard. Because some were using the time for studying, there was discussion on ending all but the special assemblies. This will be a problem for next year's S. P.

SCHOOL SPIRIT RUSHED IN WHEN THE TEAM NEEDED IT...

Basketball coach "Spud" Bloxsom looks dejectedly at the runner-up trophy as John Marshall Coach Sattler Anderson dreams of bigger and better things to come at Charlottesville.

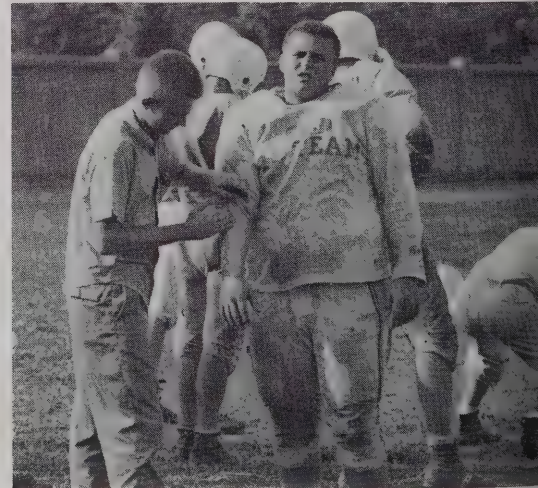

Tee Jay uses its pass defense as Will Hazell intercepts an errant toss from the John Marshall signal-caller.

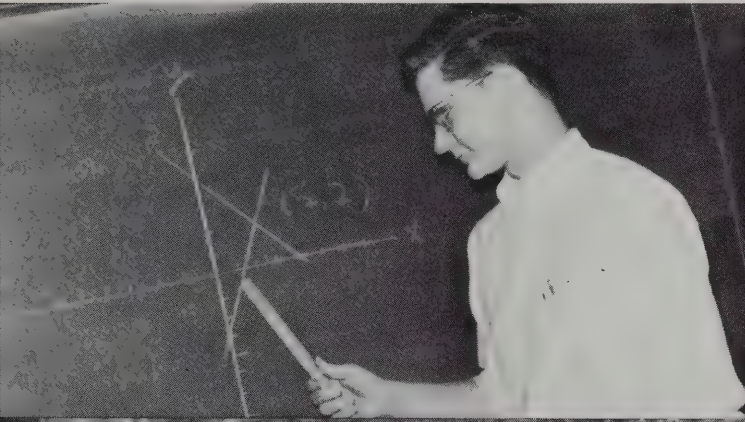

Susan Miller listens intently as school-spirited Jeffs "Yell a little louder."

During a football game, Hunter Taylor and Dickie Kline relay the uniform numbers of the Tee Jay players to broadcasters who describe play-by-play to the home audience.

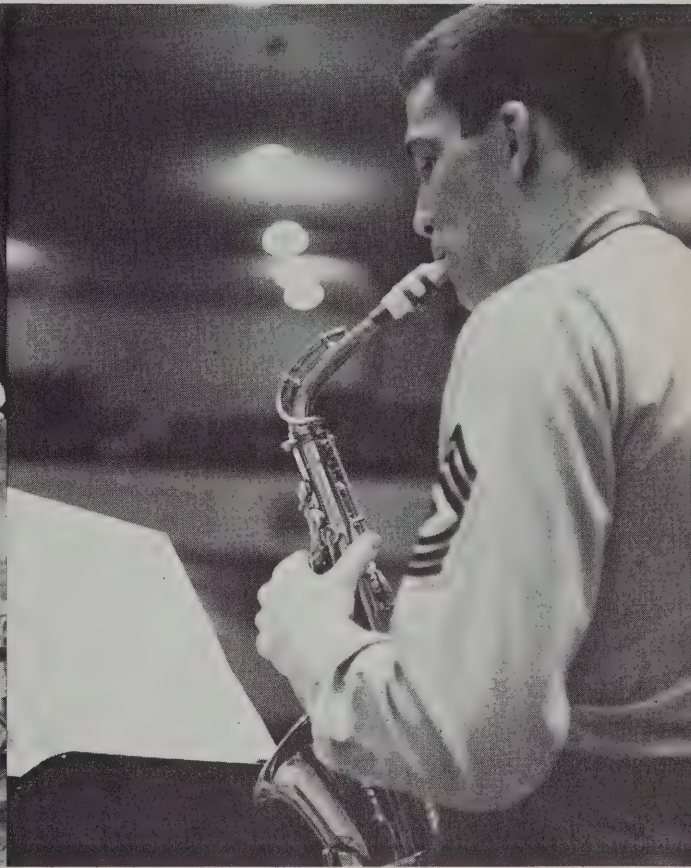

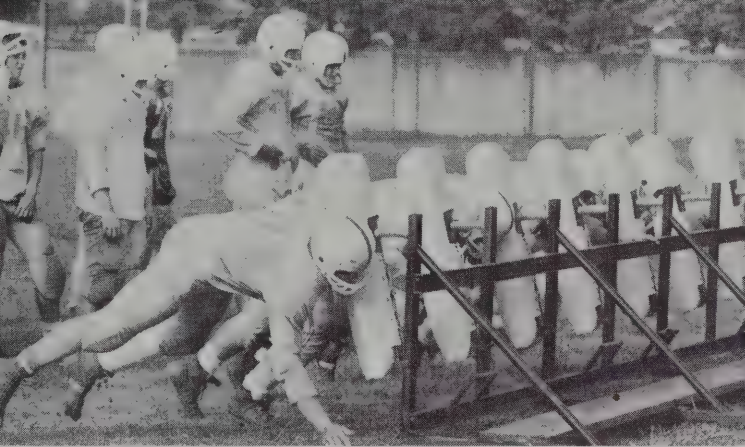

Team manager, Rusty Fisk, administers to the injuries of a wounded "Geoff" Ench.

Jay Blades explains a graph problem for his algebra class. Practice in blocking is performed in the early September heat.

Bob Day practices on his saxophone in preparation for the Band Concert.

Malcolm McIver pushes a pencil around the room in reparation for supporting the wrong candidate.

Hundreds of experiences, many of which are behind the scenes and known only to a few, go into a day. No performance is good without the long, tedious rehearsals which work out the rough spots before presentation to the public. From the heat of an August day the coaches finally bring to the gridiron in September a winning team. In the realm of music, too, the saxophonist has long hours of practice behind the seemingly flawless solo. The spotters who are so necessary at every game, the assurance that comes when one has prepared an assignment, and the degrading experience of having one's candidate lose an election—these are all a part of the school life that is behind the scenes.

Sponsors' Day was a colorful and exciting event for cadets.

Mary Duffer admires some of the jewelry at the art exhibit.

Aside from the hum of the routine school day, there are special moments which are remembered during the school year. From a New York conference to the weekly assembly programs, students have participated in activities. Numbered among the more educational experiences were the formation of a debating club and representation at two press conventions. All of these, combined with the class activities, gave the student the ability to make a contribution to society.

Members of the Latin Club ride around the field before the Tee Jay-Jay Em game.

Kiki Sanders, Buck Davis and Jim Slay examine the list of charter members of the new Debating Society.

Mrs. Brumble aims a shot in the Teacher-Tebahoe game.

Bobby Magill and Ellen Heflin, just chosen king and queen of the Senior-Junior, open a dance.

Sally Gabb opens the German Week assembly.

David Trevvett and Bill McClung examine other schools' papers in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association convention in New York.

Sportsmanship

As a boy, Robert E. Lee loved to swim in the river near his home, to skate when the pond froze over, to hunt with the men, and to play in the sports of the neighboring boys. Physically sound, graceful and athletic, he was a man who caused others to hesitate before considering combat. Though he had no obvious muscles, his powers of endurance were tremendous. Throughout his life Lee was a noted horseman and often when he had been extremely busy would go riding for relaxation. But sportsmanship involves more than physical participation in games; the attitudes and feelings with which one plays are also included, whether one plays the games of sport or of life. In this latter aspect Lee also excelled. His consideration for others and his extreme fairness in all dealings made him a respected teammate or opponent. In actual battle or sport, Lee fought hard, to win, but without malice; he knew how to accept defeat gracefully. Always he was under the strictest self control. Rarely did his temper get the best of him, for he had been so disciplined and was so genuinely interested in others that he could not be unfair. All these traits did not come easily, for the man, Lee was constantly learning and constantly practicing.

Aside from the physical fitness developed by sports, the Thomas Jefferson sports department is interested in the discipline each teaches and the spirit in which each is played. The players fight to win, for both school and individual honor, but they must also learn to take defeat. The courtesy learned in tennis, the patience in golf, the hard hitting teamwork in football and the individual effort in track all help develop a person who can play the game of life with fairness and discipline.

... "WE'LL MAKE THE TOUCHDOWNS"

The 1960 Jeff football team, in its first year under Coach Cooper, reversed their record of 1959, winning six, losing three, and tying one. The Vikings, led by Co-Captains David Call and Ed Garthright, showed great promise in the opening victory over Lane. They proved to be one of the District's top teams by tying favored Highland Springs. Following this game the Big Red suffered its worst defeat, against Petersburg; then had a fourth quarter let-down to lose to Freeman. After a win over Manchester, Tee Jay was barely defeated by eventual District champion Hermitage.

The defense saved the team in victories over George Wythe, Hopewell, and Thomas Dale, before the offense exploded in a 48-6 victory over John Marshall. Tee Jay's 48 points represent the most points ever scored by one team in the TJ-JM series. This year's starters were backs Gene Overton, Bobby Magill, Birch Douglass, Jim Hargroves, Bobby Waters and Garthright; ends Quinto Vallei, Chuck Wheeler, Bob McClenny and Will Hazell; tackles Call, Don Wickwire, Hugh Burkett, Bill Skinner and Joey Smith; guards Bill Slate, Tommy Probst and Mark Probst; and center Cary Shade.

What a time for a shoestring to break!

Highlights of the season were victories over Highland Springs (snapping the Springers' 36-game winning streak) and John Marshall, the District's two representatives in the State Tournament. After losing Bobby Duke and Gene Overton at the end of the first semester, Coach Bloxom relied mainly on Terry Dennis, Bobby Magill, Chuck Wheeler, Ike Fogel, John Newman, and Cary Shade.

LADIES, GENTS ARE ACTIVE ON TENNIS COURTS...

Looking for support from returning seniors Mary Anne Whitehead and Susan Wyland, the girls' tennis team anticipates a winning season. Emphasizing speed, good footwork, and co-ordination in practices at Byrd Park, the girls hope to defeat arch-rival St. Catherine's.

Tee Jay's tennis team hopes this year to regain the state title which it has barely lost in each of the past two years. Following Captain O. H. Parrish, state Junior champion on the team are Tommy Chewning, Mike Starr, Wayne Childs, Phil Straus, and Dal Shreck.

Mike Starr sets himself to return the ball with a forehand shot.

...SOFTBALL, GOLF TEAMS TRY TO "HIT THE BALL"

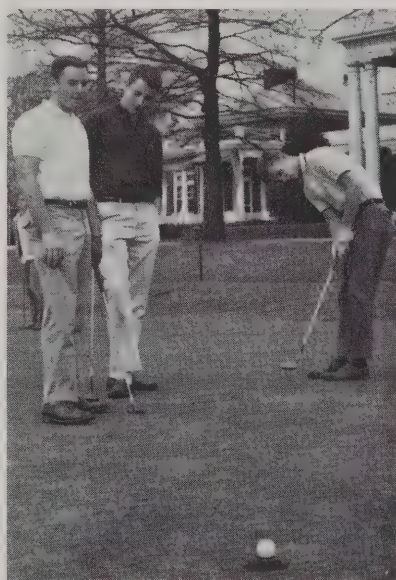

With only three returning softball players from last year, the girls' softball team will suffer from inexperience. Strong hitting from Rose Staton and Connie Williams and good catching by Stancie Tuck show promise for the team, headed by Captain Beverly Failing.

The tremendous turnout for Tee Jay's golf team indicated that this sport is fast becoming one of the mainstays on Thomas Jefferson's spring sports schedule. A winning season was anticipated by starters Skippy Hazeltine, Bobby Tomlinson, Richard Glazier, and Ronnie Plotkin.

GOLF TEAM—McCumber, Tomlinson, Hazeltine, Grinnan, Glazier, Plotkin.

As Ronnie Plotkin and Richard Glazier look on, Skippy Hazeltine sees his putt "die" an inch from the cup.

VARSITY BASEBALL—Front Row: Skinner, Douglass, Shade, Journey, Payne, Probst, Robins, Bailey, Magill.
Last Row: Lucord, Clark, Helles, Farley, Grizzard, W. Clark, Baird, Antonick, Parrish, Smith.

SHAWEN FIELD IS KEPT BUSY...

After a surprise 4-0 victory over defending District champion Manchester, Tee Jay's baseball team lost its hitting touch, dropping games to Hermitage, 6-0, and Petersburg, 1-0. Although only four lettermen return from last season's squad, the Jeffs have hopes of bettering last years

7-7 record. Returning lettermen are pitcher-outfielder Bobby Magill, catcher Mark Probst, pitcher-first baseman Cary Shade, and second baseman Birch Douglass, while promising newcomers are shortstop Bill Journey, third baseman Walter Bailey, and pitcher Jack Helles.

Mr. Bloxom keeps a watchful eye on the team.

... SPRING TEAMS ENJOY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

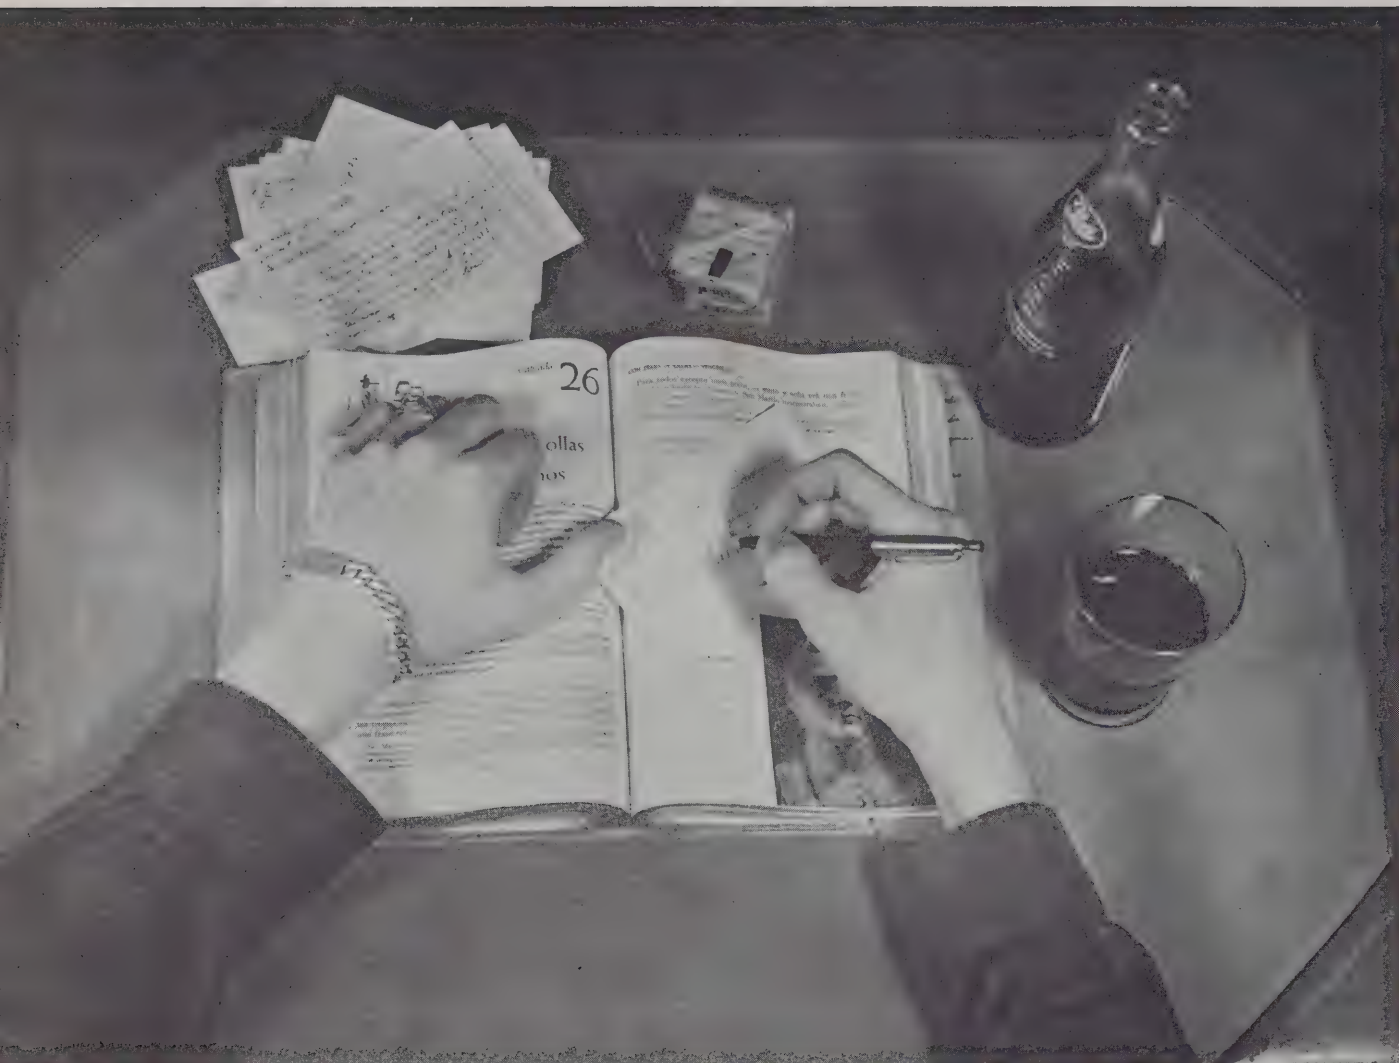

Opening the season with victories over Hermitage, 58-55, and Manchester, 62½-50½, the track team showed promise of being one of the District's better teams. Although Coach Cooper's Jeffs do not appear strong enough to win the District title, they should be high in the standings. Outstanding performers are John Boatwright in the broad jump, Quinto Valle in the shot put, sprinter Russell Flammia, hurdler Bob McClenny, and runners Bill Collins, Robert Sprull, Jim Collins, Backle Smithey, Frank Louthan, Billy Collins, and Buck Davis.

Terry Dennis clears the bar.

Backle Smithey "kicks."

Stewardship

From infancy, Robert E. Lee was taught the strictest economy in all financial matters. He learned his lesson so well that when he graduated from West Point he received a sizable sum in back allowance, for, while he had spent as much as the average cadet on the necessities of cadet life, he had been quite frugal in his personal expenditures. During his engineering training after graduation he learned a great deal about banking and departmental finance, though he never did have a good memory for financial details. Lee was especially thrifty with others' money. His shrewd business management at Washington College gained for the school many things which it otherwise might not have obtained. Always managing to live within his own income and still save, he believed firmly in saving and wise investment. This monetary economy was very necessary to him in his dealings with the ever short supplies for his army. Lee was thrifty with time as well as money and practiced time-saving organization in his personal life as well as his military administration.

Through our contacts with the Richmond business world, in class, personal shopping, and publication advertising staffs, many Thomas Jefferson students have become aware of the necessity for careful stewardship of time and money. The business men and women and the taxpayers of our city have been more than generous to us with time, experience and materials. Just as the businesses investing in our ad section have financially supported this book, many business people taking their time to speak to assemblies and clubs have supported and activated the interest of the students. In the next few years, many of us will be joining them, practicing the lessons they and Thomas Jefferson have taught.

Special Report to Young Men of Tomorrow . . .

UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITY

awaits you in the pulp and paper industry

WHERE WILL you go after high school? To work? To trade school? To College? For the young man interested in college training, the pulp and paper industry has a continuing need for new technical personnel and offers unlimited opportunities for advancement in this exciting field.

THE SPECTACULAR growth of this industry makes possible top wages and security in a host of highly skilled technical positions. A four-year college education is preferred for such positions as pulp technologists, plant chemists, quality control specialists and production trainees.

SCHOLARSHIP help at North Carolina State College in Raleigh is available for college majors in pulp and paper technology, and highly remunerative employment within the industry is usually available during the summer vacation periods. Graduates of this program are qualified for quick advancement in production, technical and top management positions within the industry. Applications for pulp and paper scholarships for the academic year beginning next fall must be made by May 15.

IF YOU are a young man in high school who has above average grades in math, physics, chemistry and related subjects, we urge you to contact us or your Guidance Coordinator. We will gladly explain to you in detail about the opportunities awaiting you in this fascinating industry.

The Mark of a Champion!

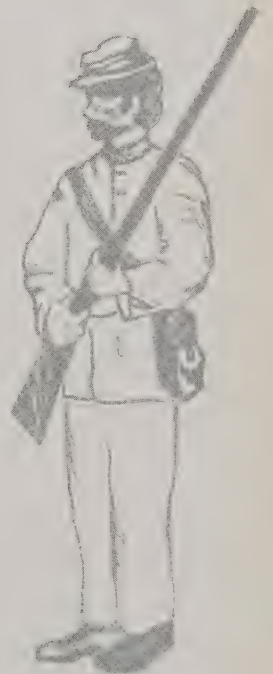

When a young man can face the business world with the same undaunted courage that he bucks the line in football, and can take the bumps that inevitably will come to him in business, and can keep his fighting spirit and keep smiling . . . then he has the mark of a champion. The world needs young men like this and the world will make way for them. The life insurance business needs such men, so why not prepare yourself for a career in the life insurance business. It's a business of opportunity for young men of ambition and vision.

Home Beneficial Life Insurance Company

"The Home of Protection"

HOME OFFICE

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

THIS IS YOUR LIFE

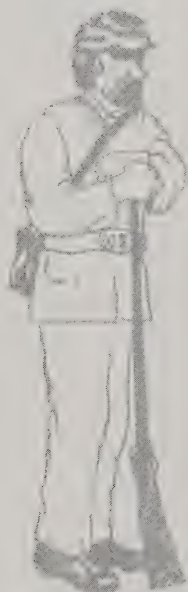

It's a successful life! Step straight from high school into a good starting salary at Life of Virginia. There's opportunity galore here, too, in one of America's largest insurance companies. If it's a career you're looking for, free advancement training courses will also help you qualify for interesting, responsible, good-paying jobs higher up "on the ladder."

It's a happy life! You're welcomed into a friendly group of nearly 600 "Licovans" at our air-conditioned home office. Recreation programs include sports, picnics, parties. Make friends in an attractive, dollar-saving cafeteria. Short hours (8:30-4 , no Saturdays), holidays and vacations give more time for outside fun.

It's a secure life! Retirement plans plus social security . . . a registered nurse on full-time duty . . . life, medical, disability insurance. To make this good life your life, write or drop by our Personnel Division, Life of Virginia Building . . . overlooking Capitol Square.

After commencement, what are you going to commence?

Before you make your final decision, consider a telephone career. You'll start with good pay. What's more, you'll earn frequent raises as you learn. And the training you receive is excellent. You'll also enjoy interesting work, friendly people and pleasant surroundings. And you'll have the satisfaction of serving your own community. So why not commence a rewarding career with a telephone job?

Acknowledgments

We Salute . . .

. . . the members of the faculty and student body.

Your co-operation and enthusiasm have made the 1961 MONTICELLO. The stories and pictures are of you and your school year. We hope that you will enjoy keeping this volume as much as we have enjoyed making it.

. . . our principal.

Mr. Brock, your constant interest in the work of THE MONTICELLO staff and your obvious pride in our accomplishments have encouraged us to do our best.

. . . our advisers.

Miss Lowance, the largest salute of all belongs to you. You have spent hours of your own time on the 1961 MONTICELLO, but because of your confidence in us, this is truly a book "published by the students." You were, not a dictator but an adviser; not just an instructor but a personal friend. Thank you very much. Miss Gray, through your determined efforts and your constant vigilance over the financial matters of the 1961 MONTICELLO you have made this book a practical reality.

. . . our artists.

Susan Miller and Susan Garrett, we thank you for sharing your talents with us. Your cover design and drawings, Susan Miller, and your drawings, Susan Garrett, have given a special touch of historic atmosphere to our book.

. . . our typists.

Judy Fisher, you and Carolyn Hudson have done the most tedious and uninteresting job on the staff. Your patient deciphering and conscientious typing and re-typing have saved time and work for the staff and the printer.

. . . our photographers.

Dementi Studio, Lisman Studio and our three staff photographers are responsible for the pictorial coverage by the 1961 MONTICELLO. We owe a special salute to Bill Martin, Walter Covington and Steve Peple for the patience and time spent in taking and developing the pictures. With the exception of the formal portraits you three deserve the credit for every picture in our book.

. . . our publisher.

Mr. King, for your professional advice and your active interest, we owe a tremendous salute. In allowing us to see our work in each stage, you have made the 1961 MONTICELLO even more our book. To you and to Whittet and Shepperson we offer our sincere thanks.

. . . our advertisers.

Your financial assistance has made the production of the 1961 MONTICELLO possible. We are very grateful for your help.

. . . Brandt and Brandt.

We thank you for permitting us to use the quotation from "John Brown's Body" by Stephen Vincent Benet in the foreword.

This monument symbolizes to the people of Richmond the character of a great man. May we never become so engrossed in our own personal accomplishments that we have no time to look up at Lee and ask: Can we follow his example?

Almond Assures Aid On Kennedy Request

Governor Almond assured President Kennedy yesterday of his co-operation in efforts to see that foreign diplomats—particularly representatives of new African nations—receive “proper hospitality” in Virginia.

Almond expressed hope all Virginians would do everything possible to avoid any unpleasant incidents involving diplomatic personnel of other nations who may visit Virginia.

The Governor's assurances answered Mr. Kennedy's request for help in according “friendly and diplomatic reception for diplomatic representatives of foreign countries who may be working, living and traveling in your state.”

Special Effort Called For

Noting that the success of day-to-day relations depends on state authorities and individual citizens as well as federal officials, the President added:

“The rapid increase in missions from new African nations calls for special support at this time . . . Seven new African republics will be establishing missions in Washington during the coming months. With each of these comes a large number of staff members who have daily contact with a wide range of daily life here. Their acquaintance with our people, recreational facilities, places of business and many other places extends throughout our communities.

“Unfortunately, there have been incidents which have brought complaints to the Department of State and received adverse attention in the world's press. Although most of these incidents have not been the subject of formal protests, they understandably still rankle and are a disservice to the individuals involved, our own nation, and the cause of international understanding.

“I will appreciate your personal influence and public office being brought to bear to insure that proper hospitality is extended to our foreign visitors . . .”

Almond replied he would be “pleased to co-operate” in the President's request.

“The operation of private business, of course, is under the control of the owners and proprietors,” Almond added. “But I am confident that Virginians, in general, are in sympathy with the basic viewpoint expressed in your letter, and that they will make every reasonable effort to help achieve

U. S. Woes Invaded

Cuba in Brief

By The Associated Press

MIAMI—Fidel Castro incapacitated—probably mentally—in rebel invasion bombing last Monday inter-American and Cuban rebel groups reported without confirmation; “freedom fighters” radioed from Escambray mountains they were continuing fight after abandoning beachhead; Castro forces claimed invasion stamped out; Castro firing squads executed nine more alleged terrorists.

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy warned that United States would not hesitate to protect its own security in Cuban situation, even if other countries in hemisphere failed to uphold anti-Communist obligations; he conferred with Dr. Jose Miro Cardona and other anti-Castro leaders, and also talked with former Vice President Nixon; Secretary of State Rusk said landing operation was not a major invasion, but a type of resistance that was likely to go on.

MOSCOW—Moscow press gloated over invaders' loss of beachhead but warned there may be more attacks.

Rumors Fly On Castro Disability

From T-D Wire Dispatch

Cuban Prime Minister Castro was reported by an observer in Havana last night to be in good health. Earlier, a Castro reports in Miami said he suffered either a physical or mental collapse in rebel invasion bombing Monday.

The Cuban government stored telephone communications last night for the time since Monday and the Associated Press was able to contact the Cuban capital after the long blackout on information.

A diplomatic informant in Havana said none of the Cuban leaders, including Prime Minister, his brother Raul, and economic boss Guevara was in contact. “Che” Guevara was public evidence and there been rumors about them.

He said the public apparently accepted the view, however, that they were somewhere.

Don't Abandon Cuba; Don't Yield Beachhead

President Hints At Acting Alone

WASHINGTON, April 20—(AP)—President Kennedy served notice on Communist foes and non-Communist friends Thursday that the United States will act on its own against Cuba's Reds if necessary to protect United States security.

Mr. Kennedy did not specify when this time might come. But in a speech delivered to an editors' meeting amid news of a major setback for anti-Castro invaders, he said somberly:

"Cuba must not be abandoned to the Communists. And we do not intend to abandon it either . . .

"Any unilateral American intervention, in the absence of an external attack upon ourselves or an attack upon our friends, would have been contrary to our traditions and to our international obligations.

"But let the record show that our restraint is inexhaustible.

Warning to Moscow

"Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action—if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration—then I want it clearly understood that this government will not hesitate to meet its primary obligations which are to the security of the
